THREATS OF DEATH FAIL TO PRODUCE IRISH ARMS

Few Guns Surrendered But Many Found In Streets

COUNTESS JAILED

Insurance Companies To Pay Policy Holders At Liverpool

(Reuter's Service)

London, Dec. 29.—Enquiries in official quarters in Dublin show that there has been no surrender of arms on a big scale in response to the proclamation which specified yesterday as the last day after which the retention of arms in the Martial Law area becomes punishable by death.

Judging, however, from happenings in Dublin, which is not within this area, it is believed that arms are being got rid of. All kinds of weapons and ammunition have been picked up in the back streets and waste ground of Dublin during the past month. Most of these weapons were revolvers, many of which had been hammered to make them useless, while a number of queer instruments such as spear-heads and daggers have also been found.

THROW GUNS IN WATER

One of the chief dumping spots is the Liffey, where revolvers and cartridges have frequently been found at low tide. A number of owners of illicit articles have also been depositing them at the residences of known loyalists, as, for instance, inside their letter-boxes.

The charge of conspiracy for which the Countess Markiewicz has just been sentenced to two years' imprisonment was in connection with the promotion of an organisation, called the "Fianna Eireann," similar to the Boy Scouts.

The prosecution produced documents showing that its purpose was to train boys to become Irish Volunteers, while its officers also glorified the murder of police and military.

TO PAY FIRE LOSSES

The question of the responsibility of insurance companies on account of the damage caused by the Sinn Fein fires at Liverpool last month has been solved for the time being by the companies meeting the claims, pending a legal decision as regards the liability of the community for outbreaks of fire due to civil commotion and riot.

The companies will reclaim from the Corporation if the latter is held responsible. It is estimated that the damage to merchandise, exclusive of buildings, was £350,000.

JOURNALISTS AROUSED

London, Dec. 29.—Some feeling has been aroused among pressmen owing to the stiff sentences imposed by Court Martial on the editor and directors of the 'Freeman's Journal, in view of the comparative veniality of their offences. It is pointed out that the men who have been sentenced are well-known to be moderates, and that the Freeman's Journal has never been a Sinn Fein organ.

It is suggested that the military in Ireland are defying the Government's policy of leniency.

The destruction of the machinery of the "Cork Examiner" is attributed to Sinn Fein extremists, who disapproved of the "Examiner's" strong support of the Bishop of Cork's recent pastoral against violence.

LABORITES IN SESSION

London, Dec. 29.—A national Labor Congress is being held at the Central Hall, Westminster, to discuss the questions of Ireland and unemployment. A resolution was unanimously adopted, deploring the present condition of affairs in Ireland, and demanding a judicial enquiry into the reprisals, and the punishment of those found guilty. Another resolution, moved by Mr. Arthur Henderson, and adopted by a large majority, denounced alike the Sinn Fein outrages and reprisals, and urged the opening of peace negotiations on the basis of the British Labor Party's policy, as approved by the All-Ireland Labor Conference on November 16.

RUMANIA, UNDER RED PERIL, ASKS TO RETAIN ARMY

Ambassadors' Conference Will Be Asked To Decide Course Of Action

(Reuter's Service)

London, Dec. 29.—Rumania is confronted with a grave situation, according to an urgent telegram received by M. Take Jonescu, the Rumanian Foreign Minister, who is now in London.

This message reports that twelve Bolshevik divisions are massed on the Bessarabian frontier, and that Hungarian troops have occupied the neutral zone, despite the decisions of the Inter-Allied Commission.

The Rumanian Government has sent a Note to the Allies, calling their attention to this new menace, assuring them of its own pacific intentions, but declaring that demobilisation of the Rumanian army is impossible until the situation has been cleared up.

Rumania has been informed that the matter will be submitted to the Ambassadors' Conference in Paris.

JAPAN AND U.S. IN COMPROMISE ON PROPERTY LAW

All Aliens To Be Forbidden To Own Land In State Is Arrangement

DOMINIONS TAKE HAND

Canada's Sympathies With Americans Declaration Of Toronto Editor

(Reuter's Service)

London, Dec. 29.—The Times correspondent at New York telegraphs: "According to Mr. Julius Kahn, one of the California members of the House of Representatives, negotiations between Japan and the United States, in regard to the California decision to forbid the ownership of land to Japanese are on the eve of settlement, on the basis of a proposal that the California Legislature shall pass a Land Law, forbidding all alien ownership of land for any purpose.

"In return for this concession, Japan, according to Mr. Kahn, will prohibit emigration to the United States. Washington declares this version of the situation is authoritative."

CANADA'S STAND

According to a Times telegram, the Toronto Globe opposes the renewal of the Anglo-Japanese Alliance. It declares that neither Power requires such an Alliance for defensive purposes, and points to the increasing friction between the United States and Japan concerning the status of Japanese settlers on the Pacific coast, in which question, it says, Great Britain and the Dominions are not concerned. It believes that Canada and Australia are more likely to side with the United States than with Japan, should a choice be necessary.

The Globe adds: Canada, treaty or no treaty, will feel no obligation to help Japan against the United States. The statesmen of the British Empire who are safeguarding Britain's interests in the Far East doubtless understand that Canada can be no party to an international agreement that involves such a great risk.

Washington, Dec. 29.—The California delegation to Congress met in executive session to discuss the anti-Japanese land legislation recently passed in California and adjourned without having formulated any definite course of action. The delegation will await further information from the State Department, which is discussing the California land law with the Japanese Ambassador, and also from the officials in California.

Department Of Justice On Trail Of Organisers Of Outlaw Body

USING SHARP METHODS

Various Communist Parties And Kindred Associations Believed To Be United

(Reuter's Service)

Chicago, Nov. 30. (by mail).—The first "underground party" that the United States has ever seen is now believed to be operating, according to Edward J. Brennan, division superintendent of the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice here.

"It appears," he said, "that members, or a great majority of them, of the Communist parties have gone over to a United Communist Party that seems to be maintaining a secrecy never before attempted by an American radical organisation.

"The Russian element which formed the backbone of the original Communist party appears to be in control and to have the bulk of the membership of the new secret organisation.

UNUSUAL PRECAUTIONS

"Literature is frequently distributed without any indication as to where it comes from. In order to escape detection, it appears that the party members take unusual precautions. The members are known among themselves and literature is passed around among them, sometimes by messenger. When mailed, we know that it is done in small quantities, three or four letters or packages in a box in one corner of a city and three or four in a box in another section.

"The party has its largest membership in Chicago and New York. In Chicago meetings have been made extra difficult by the Illinois law which forbids renting property to an outlaw organisation of this character. Property owners who become suspicious often call us to make sure on this point.

"It is my individual conviction that the United Communist Party, the old Communist Party and kindred associations of this nature are unlawful in that they advocate the overthrow of the Government by force and violence.

BOLSHEVIK PROGRAM

"The original Communist Party, which was organised here a year ago, took a stand against participating in elections. This it held to be of no use, and it urged a Bolshevik program. I have no knowledge myself of literature being recently distributed urging against taking part in the presidential election, as was reported in press despatches from the east at the time, but if this was the case, it was in line with what the party appears to stand for.

"It will be recalled that pamphlets, literature and circular letters were sent out broadcast to members of the Communist party and that lecturers gave instructions at their meetings that if at any time a member was interviewed or attempted to be interviewed by any person, particularly by a federal or state officer, he was to answer no questions and tell them nothing, and in the event of a member being arrested he was to say nothing, and that as soon as possible he would be provided with a defense."

KOO ADVISES FACTIONS HERE TO END STRIFE

Best Results From Higher Standing In League Depend On Unity

SURCHARGE DATE SET

Special Tax On Foreign Goods To Be Effective From February 16

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, Dec. 28.—The Minister of Foreign Affairs has memoralised the Chief Executive to the effect that the Chinese special delegates in Geneva telegraphed that by a majority of vote, namely 21, China has been elected a member of the Committee of the Administrative Council of the League of Nations. The Foreign Powers have evidently expressed their ample confidence as well as great interest in the future of this country.

The status of the Chinese Republic in the family of Nations is thus raised. It is the earnest appeal of Dr. Wellington Koo that all citizens in China should rise up and bring about a reconciliation in name as well as in fact.

SURCHARGE ON FEBRUARY 16

This is essential in order that the leading world powers may render their moral support and timely assistance to promote the welfare of the people of China.

In response to this petition, the Chief Executive refers to his Mandate recently proclaimed announcing the national reunion with effect from October 30 this year. He stated that his earnest wish expressed in that Mandate should be adhered to by all citizens high and low alike so that "our foreign brothers will consider their [illegible] in electing one of our special delegates a member of the Administrative Council of the League worth their while."

POWERS TO ASSIST

The Chinese Government is going to enforce the levy of surcharge on foreign goods imported to this country with effect from February 16 next year. This decision is reached in order to make room for some minor details to be settled prior to the enforcement. As the majority of the Diplomatic Corps has given its consent to the famine relief loan to the extent of $4,000,000, it is the intention of the Chinese Government to solicit the favor that the loan in question be made over to the Government on the 10th of January the coming year. The British, French, American and Japanese Ministers offer no objection to this request. It is therefore anticipated that the amount of $4,000,000 representing the prospective famine relief loan will be handed over to the Chinese Government at an earlier date than the actual enforcement of the levy of surcharge.

STAMP TAX LOAN

The Chinese Government is reported to have entered into an agreement with the Domestic Banking Group with regard to a famine relief loan to the extent of $2,000,000.

The Stamp Tax proper is pledged as security towards the repayment of this loan, which is to be effected at a premium of ninety five to every hundred.

Interest is charged at the rate of 3.8 percent per annum. The amount to be obtained is, however, to be

Poet Dictator Turns Over His Power To Citizens Who Agree To Pact Terms

(Reuter's Service)

Rome, Dec. 29.—According to a telegram from Abbazia, nine miles from Fiume, to the "Corriere della Sera," d'Annunzio has handed over his authority to the Communal Council of Fiume.

General Ferrario, the Commander of the Italian Troops surrounding Fiume, agreed to suspend firing at the request of delegates from Fiume who met him at Abbazia yesterday morning, but insisted that before negotiations were opened up he should receive a signed declaration of unconditional acceptance of the Treaty of Rapallo.

The delegates returned to Abbazia in the afternoon with the declaration signed by the leading citizens, with the exception of d'Annunzio, who promised to sign it, if the declaration were accepted.

Later.—According to a semi-official source, an agreement for the surrender of Fiume may be regarded as concluded.

D'Annunzio has issued a proclamation, declaring that it is "not worth while dying for Italy."

It is stated that he is leaving Fiume by aeroplane.

MARTIAL LAW IN CHANGSHA WHEN ATTACK IMPENDS

General Chen Chien Assembles Forces Preparatory To Assault On City

(Staff Wire To THE CHINA PRESS)

Hankow, December 30.—Plans are being formulated by General Chen Chien to attack Changsha. His forces are being assembled in Western and Southern Hunan. Martial law has been proclaimed by Chao Hung-ti, the Commander-in-chief of the Hunan forces. He will open relations with and pledge allegiance to Peking. Fighting is expected.

Hankow, December 29.—An attempt to attack Changsha was made today by General Chen Chien from Yochow but failed. General Chao Hung-ti, however, is sending detachments to Yochow to disperse the remnants of Chen's troops.

BUSINESS SUSPENDED

Changsha is again panic-stricken. All business is suspended. Shops are closed and people are fleeing to Hankow.

Hankow, December 30.—The plot of Chen Chien with General Li Lieh-chun to invade Hunan and oust General Chao Hung-ti, commander-in-chief of the military forces in Hunan, has been discovered and as a result many high officials of the province have been executed.

During a conference called by Chao on Christmas Day to discuss the question of the request by General Li Lieh-chun to pass through Hunan, troops were secretly placed round the place of meeting beforehand by Chao. The different parties were at loggerheads in the

RESUME PARLEY IN SHANGHAI IS DEMAND OF SUN

(Staff Wire To THE CHINA PRESS)

Peking, December 29.—The Central Government today received the "final warning" of Dr. Sun Yat-sen, stating that the resumption of the peace parley at Shanghai will be the only hope for conciliation between his clique and the North.

DESTROYER FIRED ON

New York, Dec. 29.—The London correspondent of the Associated Press states that, according to despatches from Fiume, the Italian regulars have occupied the shipyards, refinery, public gardens and Monte Calvario.

Admiral Simonetti gave the destroyer Espero, which recently deserted to d'Annunzio, 15 minutes in which to rejoin the regular fleet. After the expiration of this time one of the Italian warships fired on the Espero at 500 yards, and disabled her.

A Rome message to the same Agency reports demonstrations in favor of d'Annunzio in all the great centers of Italy, but adds that there have been no serious incidents.

PALACE BOMBARDED

(Reuter's French Wireless)

Paris, Dec. 29.—A Rome despatch states: A communique from the Quarnero Regency confirms the report that the Government Palace at Fiume was bombarded by the Italian armored cruiser Andrea Doria and that Gabriele d'Annunzio was slightly wounded in the head by a shell. Since Sunday night hostilities have been, to a certain extent, suspended, and the Italian people are anxiously hoping that a peaceful solution of the trouble may be found.

The situation, in the meanwhile, remains uncertain and exceedingly delicate notwithstanding the pourparlers for an armistice opened between General Ferrario and the Fiumian delegation. The Fiumian delegates are reported to have presented to General Ferrario a declaration drawn up by the leading citizens of Fiume, which was to be signed by d'Annunzio this morning and submitted to General Caviglia.

WOMAN ACCUSED OF THEIVING CAUGHT

Detectives attached to the Central Police Station at 8:30 o'clock last night arrested a Polish woman named Stabuslava Felixvona Wzorakovskaya, a native of Warsaw, in a boarding house on East Hanbury Road, on a charge of shoplifting.

On December 24 she and a man named Abram Brozki, who is at present under remand, were detected, it is charged, with a quantity of ladies' clothing valued at $600 which was said to have been stolen from Boyes & Bassett's store.

Both were taken into custody but the woman escaped from the charge room of the police station. With very little information as to her description the detectives have been working on the case ever since in an effort to locate the missing woman and were finally successful.

The woman will be taken before the Mixed Court today.

Attempt To Kill Gen. Li Held Undoubtedly To Be Move Of Political Enemy

Friends Think It May Be First Of Series Of Attacks; Wounded Man May Recover

The investigations of yesterday in connection with the attempted assassination Wednesday evening of General Li Kung-yuan tended to confirm the theory that the former Southern military chieftain was the intended victim of professional assasins in the employ of his political enemies.

Otherwise there were no definite developments in the case. The police have little to work on in the case, beyond the sketchy description given of the men and the four empty .32 calibre automatic pistol cartridges which were found on the scene. There is a rumor of threats having been received by the general some time previously, but nothing tangible has been uncovered in this connection.

Lu Wei-sien, advisor and aide to General Li, who was shot through the throat by one of the three assailants when he tried to block their entrance into the house at 211 Weihaiwei Road, was reported as still in a critical condition at Paulun Hospital. It is now thought, however, that he may recover. The bullet passed clean through Lu's neck and had the effect of paralysing the lower part of his body.

POLITICAL PLOT

Friends of Gen. Li are confident that the attack was inspired by a prominent Southern political leader and are gloomy with forebodings that the attempt may mark the beginning of a series of such attacks, as has been the case in previous years when there has been a marked recrudescence of political disturbances. Such a situation arose here in 1911, in 1913, and in 1915, and again in 1917, at which time there was considerable agitation for the taking of steps to put a stop to the settling of political refugees in the foreign concessions. In that connection the Commissioner of Police in his report for the year 1917 made the following comment:

"As has constantly been the case since 1911 the activities of the Department have been closely connected with current politics in China. Every important political movement in China inevitably has its effect on Shanghai, and the danger to which the Settlement is exposed through the pre-

COAL STEAMER SINKS IN RIVER AFTER COLLISION

Ship Strikes Chinese Gunboat And Goes Down Near Arsenal

A Japanese steamer, said to be under charter to the Kailan Mining Administration, was sunk in the Whangpoo near the Arsenal yesterday afternoon. There was no loss of life.

The ship had just arrived here from Chingwantao with a cargo of coal, having made an especially speedy trip in order to be in before New Year's Day. She was being turned round when evidently caught by the falling tide and crashed into the bows of a Chinese gunboat. A great hole was torn in the steamer's hull and she immediately began to fill and sink and went down in about an hour's time. The 43 men of the crew all left the ship safely.

The accident occurred about 3 p.m. at a point about two miles up the river.

MR. EDWARD EZRA BUYS BIG BLOCK ON KIANGSE ROAD

Will Erect Modern Business Structure Opposite New Municipal Building

The large block on the East side of Kiangse Road, between Hankow and Foochow Roads, was purchased yesterday from Messrs. Andersen, Meyer and Company by Mr. Edward Ezra. The price paid was Taels 402,000. Mr. Ezra will tear down the present buildings located on the four and a half mow of land as soon as leases expire and will then erect modern and commodious buildings.

The property faces the new Municipal Building. It runs the entire city block south from Hankow Road. It houses at present the Municipal Council offices, Andersen, Meyer and Company godowns and several other firms.

Suggest Foreign Protest To Government Scheme For Surtax Expenditure

At the weekly meeting of the Distribution Committee of the Chinese Foreign Relief Committee held Wednesday night a further $50,000.00 was voted to buy grain in Manchuria. Grain-trains are now passing through Tientsin daily, and a total of 7,000 tons of grain is expected to be delivered at the famine-dumps by the end of the year.

The committee reports:

"We further decided to purchase 10,000 wadded garments for distribution in Honan and Shantung, and Chihli.

"The question of the Government proposals for dealing with the proposed four million dollars loan—guaranteed on the surtax—was considered. The proposal is for 90 percent to be administered by the Government Famine Relief Bureau and 10 percent by the Peking International Famine Relief Committee.

"This proposal is not to the mind of the Peking International Famine Relief Committee, and the Tientsin Famine Relief Committee has protested against such allocation of this loan.

FOR RAILWAY BENEFIT

"It is of interest to know that the Government proposal involves the spending by them of the surtax-funds in embankment-building, etc. in connection with the new railways, Chefoo to Weihsien and Shihkiachwang to Tsangchow, and half a million dollars has been sent to the Peking-Hankow and Tientsin-Pukow Railways to have this work begun! In his communication to the press announcing this arrangement the Minister of Communications omitted to mention that the frozen state of the ground will not allow of building up embankments or any other railway construction work until the Spring!

"Meanwhile the people are dying for lack of food and clothing. One wonders how much of this surtax will be available for the famine sufferers

Attempt To Extradite Students On Trumped-up Charge, Is Alleged Here

Efforts are being made here to secure the release of nine Chinese students from Foochow who are now being held at the Shanghai City Criminal Court on what is alleged to be a trumped up charge intended to place them in the hands of the Fukien military for execution.

It is charged by local students' organisations, which are trying to effect the release, that the young men were decoyed into Chinese territory from the Foreign Settlement and there were arrested. The Foochow Students' Union has also been pressing for the release of the students, having been in communication with the local Students' Federation, which has petitioned for a release on security.

The arrest of the students, it is said, is an outgrowth of the boycott activities in Foochow last year, when considerable quantities of Japanese goods purchased by Chinese merchants were destroyed. Subsequently, also, several prominent Chinese merchants were killed. It is believed that the students in question, several of whom are in their early teens, may have been involved in the boycott demonstrations and the allegation is that this forms the basis for charges of connection with the murders. It is charged that the accusation comes because of a personal grudge of the Fukien Tuchun.

The students came to Shanghai and for some time had been living in the foreign Settlement. A detective from Foochow was sent here and gained their confidence by pretending to be in sympathy with student movements. Some days ago, it is said, under the pretense that he was going to form an organisation and wished them to visit a location which he had secured, he induced the nine to visit the Chinese city. When they arrived there they were detained. A despatch warrant was then wired for to Foochow.

The Foochow Students' Union in its correspondence with the local students' body was telegraphed that the nine were sent here for the purpose of lecturing and to establish closer relationship between the two organisations.

Mixed Court Jottings

Theodore Georgakopoulos, claiming French citizenship but unrecognised by the French authorities, was fined $3 in the Mixed Court yesterday on the charge of assaulting Mr. J. Cantorovich at 11 Broadway. The defendant declared that he went into the complainant's shop to exchange some corsets which he had bought for his wife and that after making some other purchases he left, forgetting the corsets. When he returned for them, he said, the shopkeeper called him a thief and struck him, knocking him into a plate glass window, which was broken. The complainant denied the statement and declared that the attack was unprovoked.

A Chinese convicted of keeping opium for sale was sentenced to a month's imprisonment yesterday. Another Chinese accused of keeping a place where opium is smoked was fined $10.

The three hawkers who have been held in connection with the mysterious death of a Chinese found with his throat cut in the Yangtszepoo district last month, were released yesterday after being ordered to sign persona bonds to report at the police station once a month.

A Chinese clerk appeared in Court yesterday on the complain of Mr. Meade of Robert Grant and Co. that he had misappropriated a bank order for Tls. 31 and had stolen a $10 note. The police testified that when arrested he said he had loaned the bank order to a friend in Frenchtown and had kept the $10 to buy a present for another friend. The case was remanded.

A coolie was ordered to pay a $30 fine or go to jail for a month for improper driving of a motor car on the Bubbling Well Road Christmas Day, when he crashed into the car of Mr. Davies. The coolie, who was in the employ of a local compradore, had no license for driving a machine.

PANAMA CANAL IS FINANCIAL SUCCESS, REPORT

Fiscal Year Just Closed Shows Balance Of Over Two Million

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Nov. 30 (by mail). —The Panama Canal has closed the best year financially in its six years of operation with an excess of $2,387,599 in revenue over the expense of operation and maintenance.

Brigadier-General Chester Harding, Governor of the Canal Zone, predicts in his annual report that within a reasonable period of normal world conditions the canal will earn an actual profit on its cost which has been $366,650,000, exclusive of expenditures for its military and naval defense.

In the meantime, he adds, the canal is performing an important commercial service by stimulating American trade with the west coast of South America and the Orient. More than twenty-five percent of the cargo handled through the canal since its opening was in transit between the United States and South America, and fourteen and one-half percent was between the Atlantic Coast of the United States and the Orient.

During the year, 2,745 vessels passed through the canal, of which 2,478 were commercial transits. Tolls and other revenues amounted to $8,935,871, while current expenses of operation and maintenance totalled $5,548,272. The excess of revenue this year reduced to $2,231,091 the excess of operation cost and maintenance over revenue for the six years the canal has been in operation.

At the rate of revenue this year it is expected that by June 30, 1921 the collections for tolls and other canal revenue will exceed by a million dollars or more the total current expenses of operation and maintenance from the opening of the canal to that date, after which, the canal authorities think, there should be an annual surplus of five million dollars, or more.

CLARA ZETKIN AT SOCIALIST MEETING AS LENIN ENVOY

(Reuter's Service)

Tours, Dec. 28.—Today's proceedings at the French Socialist Congress were dramatically interrupted by the entry of the notorious Clara Zetkin, whom the president welcomed as Lenin's delegate.

Zetkin replied in a violent speech, in which she declared that French Socialists should become divided, so as to ensure ultimate union by getting rid of the moderates. She added that it was time that the proletariats of France, Germany and Great Britain came to the help of the Russian proletariat.

The president, M. Frossard, pointed out that Zetkin had herself admitted that the German proletariat was responsible for the war, but he (M. Frossard) hoped that the latter would not be driven into a new war by the Treaty of Versailles.

Further Evasion Of Treaty Is Charged

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, Dec. 29.—The latest kind of evasion of Germany's pledges is revealed in a Note to the German Government from the Inter-Allied Military Control Commission, which points out that instead of demilitarising the "Security Police" and amalgamating it with the Civilian Police the latter has really been absorbed by the former, while the Security Police are still armed with machine-guns and other firearms contrary to the Government's pledges of disarmament.

ITALIANS FORM SYNDICATE TO AID EMIGRANTS

Brazil May Be Invaded By Families Who Are Seeking New Homes

(Reuter's Service)

Rome, November 17 (by mail). —A syndicate with a capital of 3,500,000 lire has been organised here to promote emigration and to assist the Italian emigrants in the enterprises in which they may engage in other countries. It is intended also to make a study of the opportunities offered by other foreign countries to Italian immigrants and to protect them in their efforts to find new homes and means of livelihood outside of Italy.

The syndicate includes in its membership some of the most important Italian banks, steamship companies and representatives of workmen's organisations, both socialist and catholic.

In order to equip the emigrants for new modes of life in foreign countries, special schools have been founded to teach them to read and write and to train them for trades or for farm work.

It is understood here that Brazil is the country having the greatest need for workers, but that Brazil requires, not so many individual immigrants as it needs entire families to populate the immense extent of land. Furthermore, Italian emigration to Brazil is held somewhat in check by the belief that large capital would be needed to cut the forests from the land which the Brazilian Government desires to populate. It is pointed out that the syndicate now organised may furnish some of the capital required for that purpose.

Foreigners And Filipinos Attend Exercises Given In Observance Of Rizal Day

Story Of Life Of Patriot Martyr Is Outlined In Eloquent Address Given By Judge Lobingier Of U.S. Court

Shanghai's Filipino community with many invited foreign guests paid honor yesterday to the great Filipino patriot and martyr in the observance of Rizal Day, the national holiday of the Philippine Islands and this year marking the twenty-fourth anniversary of Rizal's death.

The public observance took the form of an interesting program of exercises presented last night at the Olympic Theater, the interior of which was most artistically decorated with flags, bunting and greenery for the occasion. In addition to selections by the Municipal Orchestra musical offerings were presented by a number of artists and addresses were given by Judge Charles S. Lobingier, of the United States Court for China, Mr. Jose P. Buensuceso and a third address in Spanish by Mr. David Perez de Tagle.

ITEMS ON PROGRAM

Included in the noteworthy numbers of the program were a Hungarian dance by Miska Hauser, a violin selection by Master A. Carneiro, "Sa Bayani," Poem in Tagalog by David Perez de Tagle by Mr. Pastual Natividad, "The Sunshine of Your Smile," sung by Miss Isabel Alinsod, and "Last Farewell" of Jose Rizal read by Mr. Telesforo Buenaflora. The program closed with the Playing of the Philippine National Anthem and the American National Anthem.

JUDGE LOBINGIER'S ADDRESS

Judge Lobingier's address, entitled "Lessons from the Life of Jose Rizal" throws a light on the life of the patriot and is of particular interest. The address was as follows:

"My Friends of the Filipino Club: I am always glad to join in a tribute to the Filipino hero, Jose Rizal. His life and character were such as to command respect and admiration not only among his own people but also among those of other races as they are gradually coming to know him. The Filipinos do well to honor the memory of Rizal and it is fitting that on this, the 24th anniversary of his execution, the Filipinos not only in their home land but in other parts of the world where they may happen to sojourn, gather to observe this as their great popular holiday.

"But the most substantial way to honor a hero is to imitate him for it has been well said that imitation is the sincerest flattery. Tributes of praise are all very well but tributes of emulation are better and the life of Rizal has many lessons which if translated into the lives and characters of his compatriots would redound to their everlasting benefit.

AN EDUCATOR

"First, Rizal believed in education not only for himself but for his countrymen for he saw therein the surest means of their liberation. He first availed himself of the limited educational facilities which his native town of Calamba provided and then he went to Manila and attended the Ateneo, then, probably, the most thorough school in the islands. After that he went to Spain and became a student at the University of Madrid where his career was most unusual.

"I knew a gentleman of Spanish descent, Sr. Del Pan, who was a schoolmate of Rizal both in Manila and Madrid and he told me that the honors achieved and prizes won by Rizal during his school days was highly remarkable. But he did not stop even with the University of Madrid for he pursued his technical education later in Germany where he made a special study of the eye and the phenomena of vision.

"His aim was to fit himself for a career in which he could be most useful to his countrymen. Education with him was not a mere ornament; it was something for practical use and for the direct benefit of his fellows and no one more than he would have rejoiced in the great educational undertaking along practical lines which has developed during the past twenty years in the form of the Philippine public school system. What pride he would have taken in the fact that more than 600,000 of his young countrymen are enrolled in the schools of that system, studying practical subjects through the sole medium of the English language!

"Again Rizal was an advocate of industry which he both preached and practiced. His life was unusually brief—barely a third of a century—but he did more and left more which has commanded the permanent attention of the outside world than any man of his race who ever lived. And he realised that the salvation of his people lay through the paths of industry.

DRAWS COMPARISON

"You Filipinos in China are located in the midst of a people to whom toil has become a second nature and for whom life is little more than a round of labor. This condition has come about partly by the rigors of the climate but more by overpopulation. In the Heaven-favored Philippines both of these causes are lacking and there is not the same incentive as constantly spurs the Chinese to industry. In the Philippines cold is almost unknown and nature is bountiful in food products which hardly need cultivation.

"Now this absence of necessity must be supplied in some other way and one is industrial education. It should be a matter of concern to every Filipino that the islands fail to produce anywhere near the amount of rice needed for their food supply. And if this is true with a population of perhaps 8,000,000 what will be the case when that population is doubled? For Java today with an area less than that of Luzon supports a population of about 30,000,000.

"The need of greater industrial activity is one of the great problems of the Philippines and there are various proposed solutions. I have mentioned industrial education. Another, often suggested, is immigration. When in Manila last Summer I attended some of the sessions of the Agricultural Congress and one of its most interesting features was the address of T. N. Kalaw, the young Secretary of the Interior, who came out courageously in favor of Chinese immigration. This indeed is a very fitting subject for consideration on Rizal Day for, as Professor Craig has shown in his biography of the hero, Rizal's ancestry was predominantly Chinese. We who have lived in the Philippines know the energetic type which is produced by the intermarriage of Chinese and Filipinos.

REFERS TO LEADERS

"You are all aware that Speaker Osmena, leader of the dominant party, and Mr. Singsun, leader of the opposition is each the son of a Chinese father. Would it not be wise to make possible the production of more Rizals and similar types and to insure the full development of the rich Philippine resources by the introduction of more of the virile, industrious and thrifty Chinese?

"Finally Rizal, though a reformer was a peaceful one. He never preached nor countenanced violence. Though far from satisfied with the government under which he lived he sought not its overthrow but merely its liberalisation. Moreover he saw and prophesied the possibility of America's advent in the Philippines, nearly a decade before it occurred, and who will doubt that he would have been one of America's most earnest coworkers had he been spared for the great undertaking which began there in 1898. And who would have been more grieved than he at such unfortunate incidents as the recent outbreak of the constabulary which resulted in the loss of more than a dozen lives? No, Rizal was not a revolutionist except without the R. He believed in peaceful evolution, and he deplored the anarchy which follows violence.

"Such are some of the lessons from the brief but instructive life of Jose Rizal. If they can be taken home and applied the result will surely be a better Filipino race and a greater Philippines."

Peking Anticipates Liberal Loan Terms From F. W. Stevens

(Staff Wire To THE CHINA PRESS)

Peking, December 30.—Mr. Frederick W. Stevens, representative of the American Group of the Banking Consortium, is expected to arrive in Peking tonight.

The Chinese press welcomes him with special articles, expressing confidence that Mr. Stevens will bring authority to modify loan conditions, making agreement possible and to grant a loan for the demobilisation of the present forces.

If the Chinese are disappointed in their anticipations, it is likely that a feeling of revulsion will be demonstrated toward Mr. Stevens and the Consortium since the anticipations have been aroused officially as propaganda.

Secrets Of Western Asia To Be Revealed Soon, Is Chicagoan's Prediction

(Reuter's Service)

Chicago, Nov. 18 (by mail).—Recovery of the "lost chapters in the career of man" hidden in the ancient buried cities of Western Asia is an imminent possibility, Dr. James Harry Breasted of the University of Chicago, reports. Dr. Breasted, who is professor of Egyptology and oriental history there, has recently returned from a survey of most of the important buried cities of the Near Orient.

The collapse of the Ottoman Empire has opened the birthplace of civilisation to unrestricted investigation, Dr. Breasted said. "It is evident," he added, "that there rises before us an opportunity unprecedented in the history of humanistic research.

"The great centers of human life in the ancient world, the mighty cities and capitals of Babylonia, Assyria, Persia, Palestine, Syria, Asia Minor and Egypt, the region where the earliest civilised societies arose out of savagery and barbarism to bring civilisation to barbarian Europe—all these treasuries of human records which are rapidly perishing in the whole region about the eastern end of the Mediteranean lie there silently awaiting the spade of the excavator."

It will be possible to clear up the leading ancient buried cities of Western Asia within the next 25 or 30 years or perhaps a generation, given sufficient funds and adequate personnel, according to Dr. Breasted.

Four Lose Lives In Wreck Of Airplane

Cape Town, Dec. 28.—The Christmas holiday season here has been marked by an airplane accident. An airplane, while making a pleasure trip, crashed into a tall chimney, dropped to the ground and immediately burst into flames. All efforts to quell the conflagration were unavailing until the fire brigade arrived. The four occupants—the pilot, Capt. Hemming, two lady passengers and a child—lost their lives.

New York, Dec. 29.—An official survey of unemployment in the United States is at present being compiled, and, according to one forecast, this will show a total of about 2,750,000 unemployed.

It is reported from Los Angeles that 50,000 actors and others connected with the cinema industry are without work, partly owing to the financial stringency and partly to the policy of producing fewer but better films.

FARMERS UNITE FOR PURCHASES OF NECESSITIES

BANKING IS INCLUDED

Engineers' Brotherhood First To Undertake Experiment Of Its Kind

(Reuter's Service)

Chicago, November 17 (by mail).—Co-operative purchase of supplies by farmers running co-operative grain elevators is now under way in a number of Middle Western states and the movement is rapidly developing, according to headquarters of the Farmers National Grain Dealers Association here. Its officers say there is a likelihood that a national co-operating purchasing organisation will be formed here in December at the Association's first national convention.

Ohio farmers who have organised a $100,000 purchasing company are reported to have contracted for the output of a coal mine and a feed mill and to be buying other materials, such as fencing and sugar, by the carload. In Iowa the formation by farmers of a million dollar corporation having purchase of farm supplies as one of its chief functions is reported.

POOL PURCHASES

The general plan is stated to be to pool purchases and sell by mail order.

Cleveland, Ohio, November 21 (by mail).—The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers Co-operative National Bank, which opened here recently, closed its first week's business with 700 savings and checking accounts, and deposits of more than $200,000, according to Warren S. Stone, president of the bank and grand chief of the brotherhood.

"So far as I know," Mr. Stone said, "this is the first co-operative commercial bank in the United States, although there are 55,000 co-operative banks in Europe. It is the first labor bank in this country."

Capital of the new institution is $1,000,000, with a paid-in surplus of $100,000. Stock is owned exclusively by the brotherhood and its members and was largely oversubscribed. Officials and directors of the bank are the officers of the brotherhood.

Chinese Institute For The Blind

Out on Edinburgh Road is an institution of which probably the majority of Shanghailanders know very little. It has been there for some eight years, doing a steadily increasing amount of good work for an afflicted class. This is a very good time for those unacquainted with the establishment to remedy that matter, and it is an appropriate season for them to render the financial assistance which the undertaking needs to continue and increase its usefulness.

The Institution for the Chinese Blind, 4 Edinburgh Road, has recently issued a second edition of the pamphlet descriptive of its scope and activities and these may be secured by applying to the Superintendent, Mr. George B. Fryer at the address given.

The budget estimated for the year 1920-21 shows a balance of Tls. 9,800 which must be raised by donations and subscriptions. In addition to this there is immediate need for a new industrial building, the cost of which is estimated at Tls. 6,000, for a stereotyping machine and outfit costing Tls. 1,000 and for extra classroom equipment and repairs which will cost about Tls. 700.

It might be mentioned that a subscription of $50 for each year will provide a scholarship for a destitute blind boy.

The Institution for the Chinese Blind was founded by Dr. John Fryer, Professor Emeritus of Oriental Languages and Literatures, University of California, in the Spring of 1911. He donated the land, Tls. 10,000 for buildings and a large endowment. His son is the present superintendent.

At the present time the school has a good corps of teachers and helpers and forty students, ranging from the lower primary to the university courses. The students come from many different provinces and take up work which is divided into five different departments—literary, musical, industrial, physical and domestic. Proficiency in all is requisite for graduation. On graduation the school endeavors to find suitable employment for its students.

Attempt To Kill Gen. Li Political Move

sence of political plotters and agitators is hardly understood as it should be. These men bring in their train a horde of adventurers who are well known as the offscourings of the professional revolutionary classes so much in evidence during the past six years. They are persons who have everything to gain by disorder, and it is they who keep the district in a state of turmoil and unrest and who swell the records of bomb outrages, robberies, murders and other forms of crime in the Settlement. Many of them are men of no mean ability. They are accustomed to the use of firearms and to the handling of explosives which they seem always able to procure; and they are ready at all times to serve any paymaster and to do any kind of dastardly work. The weapons they carry are mostly automatic pistols imported from Japan and elsewhere to arm participants in attempted local risings; and these weapons are now used by their owners to terrorise people they wish to rob and to kill or wound police and civilians in the event of pursuit.

"It seems appropriate at this time to consider whether it is not possible, in conjunction with the Authorities of the French Settlement, to bring about the expulsion of all persons who have no ostensible means of livelihood and who cannot show that they have any legitimate business in this place. Right of asylum for bona fide political refugees is one question: indiscriminate protection for dangerous revolutionary riff-raff is quite another."

LI HOW-CHI BEING WATCHED

Peking, Dec. 29.—As General Li Hou-chi is adopting a very uncertain attitude towards the political situation in Canton, the Central Government considers it essential to exercise a strict surveillance over his movements. Secret communications from Fukien indicate that General Li Hou-chi has opened informal negotiations with the Canton Military Leader General Chen Caung-ming through the channel of the latter's representative Mr. Lin Hsin. The Central Government further considers that timely instructions should be issued to Chekiang and Kiangsu, both of which are closely allied to Fukien. From a geographical point of view, it is necessary for Chekiang and Kiangsu to guard the movements of Fukien. Any ulterior move can change entirely the equilibrium of power in the Yangtsze Provinces. In addition to issuing explicit orders to General Li Hou-chi, the Central Government is sending responsible officials to proceed to Chekiang and Kiangsu in order to obtain first hand knowledge regarding political situation in the South.

RAILWAY CRITICISED

The Ministry of Communications has issued a circular order to the administrations of the Tientsin-Pukow Railway, the Peking-Mukden Railway and the Shanghai-Nanking Railway to the effect that cases of loss sustained by patrons of the railway are repeatedly reported, that no active steps are taken to adjust their claims, that the railway police authorities as well as the baggage officers are neglecting their duties, that the standing rules governing custody of baggage trains are not observed, and that such negligence speaks for the unsatisfactory state of affairs in the Railways whose prestige must be vindicated by appropriate measures. The railways concerned are instructed to pay special attention to the safety of baggage and personal effects of passengers, in order to avoid recurrence of loss and theft.

AMERICAN FOOTBALL ALL SET NOW YANKEES ARE WANTED FOR INTERNATIONAL SOCCER SERIES

Civilian Eleven Will Outweigh Sailors Sunday When Teams Play For Women's Famine Relief Society; Association Players Wanted

Now that everything is going nicely and arrangements are practically completed for the American football game to be played on Sunday afternoon to raise funds for the Women's Famine Relief Society, a call is sounded for an American team of soccer players to enter the International Cup series. Portugal, England and Scotland have already entered.

Before saying much about possibilities for an eleven of Americans playing soccer it is highly apt to remark that Captain Cy Wilhoit and Manager Knowlan, speaking for the civilians, are all set for the gridiron battle carded for Sunday. Lieutenant Royar, the navy manager, and Captain Paillou of the U. S. S. New Orleans team feel about the same way. And the Women's Famine Relief Society is figuring that the rain just must stop by tomorrow afternoon so that the big detail of boy scouts may be at the soccer games to "tag" all those present for the Sunday clash.

MUST WANTCHEE PETE

The City practiced yesterday noon with vim, vigor, pep and all that and Pete Dorrance is almost ready to say that he will play. The landsmen laid off last night but will be at it again today at noon and will hold a stiff session on New Year's Day in the afternoon. The team is far from bad and if the players do not get banged up too early the New Orleans will have a stiff Sunday afternoon.

The sailors will be outweighed. From end to end the civilian team will average over 180 pounds. The sailors' line averages up to only 170. In the backfield the civilians will also be heavier, averaging better than 174 with the Navy tipping 165. The team averages show: Civilians, 182 9/11, Navy, 168. But the Navy will be faster, will show better team work, and will have their signals down pat.

PAILLOU AT QUARTER

Paillou, the Navy captain, is to play quarter and will have Hill and Moore, the latter an officer, as halfbacks, and Warner at full. Pinson and Troki are to play end with Newman and Joseph in at tackle, Chaffee and Watson as guards and Shuff in the pivot position.

The civilians will probably start with Emerson of Columbia and Captain Cy Wilhoit on the wings; Smith of the Raven Trust Company and Keays of Texas at tackles; Boone of Minnesota and Stovall of Texas, guards, and Marsden, Army, at center.

The backfield will include Earle of Rutgers at quarter, Rodger and Dick Hutchinson the latter of Gonzaga University as halves, and Mal Maloney playing fullback. The civilians will have plenty of substitutes. Neale and the Hewitt brothers will play end, Brown of the China Mail and Hopkins of baseball fame are linemen available and Gold will play in the backfield. Pete Dorrance will start and probably finish in a blaze of glory if he decides to play.

RE SOCCER FOOTBALL

Captain Cy would have us emphasise that practice will be held today at the S. V. C. Drill Hall at tiffin time and at the same place on Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. After the Saturday session the men will jog to Monsieur Saito's and submit to a proper rubdown.

Now then—re soccer as they say in those horrible business letters. There are many Americans in this wide settlement who have played soccer football—Association if you must. On Wednesday afternoon, January 5 at 5:15 p.m., there will be a meeting of all those interested in the formation of an American team to compete with England Portugal and Scotland for the International Cup.

The Ollerdessen boys, McQuade, a number of past and present students at the American school and several recent arrivals are good at the game and the American eleven would make a good showing.

COME ON OUT

To delve into editorial comment for a moment. Sufficient sporting pep has never been manifested by young Americans in Shanghai. The first exhibit to be submitted in support of the contention is baseball. The second is cross-country running. The third is swimming.

There are men working for American firms here who have captained and run on college cross country teams and there is at least one crack swimmer—a real star. It would be wasting time to discuss baseball.

There is an opportunity—a present opportunity in soccer.

Kruvosky Second Convicted Gangster

(Special Cable)

San Francisco, December 30.—Edward ((Knockout) Kruvosky, arrested early this month following an indictment returned against him and seven others alleged to have participated in an attack on Miss Jessie Montgomery and Miss Jean Stanley at 1256 1/2 Howard Street has been convicted. He is the second of the eight to be sentenced. Ed (Spud) Murphy, another pugilist, was the first.

Kruvosky was arrested with his brother Frank (Bevo) Kruvosky, Allen McDonnell and Thoms Brady, before the police apprehended Murphy.

Chief of Police Daniel O'Brien, in a statement to the newspapers, said that the assault of which Murphy and Kruvosky were convicted, was the most revolting case of its kind that has come to the San Francisco police department since he has been a member of it.

The Law And The Turf

BY J. M. D.

(In London Daily Mail)

Horse-racing is the Cinderella of British sports. It is ever being huffed and sneered at, flouted and jeased, and yet it is the most ardently wooed of all the games and pastimes that Britons play at or follow.

The simile might be carried even farther, and racing likened unto the beautiful Princess who is kept in squalor and uncertainty by the Wicked Sisters—in this case represented by the Law and the Faddists.

No wonder The Times in a recent leading article said that "the law on the subject (betting on racing) will not bear any logical criticism."

Indeed, it will not. As a matter of plain fact, the law appertaining to racing as it stands at the present moment is the most powerful incentive to reckless and dishonest gambling that could possibly be imagined.

If the Gaming Act had been intended as a protection for thieves and swindlers, it could not have been more admirably conceived. Even the most careful and honest bookmakers and backers cannot help making large percentages of bad debts each year simply because they know that it is next door to impossible to recover any "owings" by action at law.

* * *

It is a reproach to all the honest, responsible men, big and little, connected with the turf that the Gaming Act still remains on the Statute Book. The Act breeds rascality as the sun brings out the flowers. There would be fewer complaints of race course ruffianism if betting debts were recoverable at law.

Mr. Justice Darling only spoke the plain, blunt truth when he declared that where betting on racing is concerned we are a nation of hypocrites. He did not say, as perhaps he had no means of ascertaining, that our hypocrisy costs the State millions in the year.

I make bold to say that the average successful betting man does not pay anything like his proper share of income tax on his year's profits. This knowledge is common property in intimate racing circles. Then there are the costs of keeping race course rascality in control, to say nothing of the huge sums that would be derived from a scheme of licensed bookmaking, or even too much-derided pari-mutuel.

As for promiscuous street betting, it is no less common than it was—it is only more artfully and ably conducted. Those who know smile at the small number of prosecutions that take place.

TRAINER FEUSTEL WAS DISCOVERER OF "MAN O' WAR"

Bought Great Horse For Sam Riddle And Then Trained Him

Sport is filled with thankless jobs.

All the heroes of the track, the diamond, and the gridiron are not crowned in public.

Heroes unsung in great numbers work in the dark, keep under cover at vitally important duties helping others into the hall of fame.

The linesman on the Varsity tears great holes in the opposing forces and is buried under a pile of flesh-filled jerseys, while the backfield star rushes through in the spotlight and gets the cheers.

RIDDLE TELLS STARY

Thankless jobs there are beyond enumeration, but the trainer gets the least credit of all.

On the turf perhaps the trainer does more and is credited for less than in any line of sport.

He keeps the stable in condition, primes the horse for a race and the jockey goes out and gets the laurels.

Louis Feustel, trainer and developer of the great Man o' War, is one of the first to come in for his just share of honor for giving to the American turf what has been judged the greatest horse that ever lived. And Samuel C. Riddle, owner of the equine king, saw to it that he was not overlooked.

At a dinner of turfmen Riddle told the story that the publicity-dodging trainer never would have made known.

Feustel was having a run of hard luck. His stable had dwindled to one lone runner that wasn't paying the oats bill.

SOLD FOR $5,000

Feustel was about to give up the track and seek a job as policeman in New York to tide him over until things got better.

Riddle then sent for him and commissioned him to go out and get a stable together.

He was tipped off to a promising yearling at the Saratoga sale, but was disappointed to learn that the youngster had been sold.

Running down the stalls he came across a sleek, smart looking chestnut colt and he bought him for $5,000.

It was the great Man o' War, which couldn't be bought now for a half-million, a winner of about $300,000 and the holder of several world's records.

Riddle gave all the credit to Feustel. He pointed him out as the real man behind Man o' War. He trained him to the finest point of form for two years. He sent him to the post twenty-one times for twenty victories. He had him where most any jockey could ride him ahead of the best field.

Feustel got his credit. He didn't seek the honors. They were forced on him.

Auction Bridge: Types And Fallacies

It is not intended that the title of these articles shall convey the understanding that a particular type of bridge-player is subject to a particular set of false beliefs. Though at the same time it must be admitted that these types are fairly distinct, none of whom are altogether consistent, perhaps, either in matters of good or bad judgment.

Take the well-defined type of player who has advanced quickly and with little difficulty to a stage of comparative proficiency, yet remains for the rest of his life in a state of stagnation on what may be designated as the six handicap mark. He is above the average player and at the first glance, as it were, you would place him above his class. He plays the game frequently and religiously; he plays it with great ardor or intensity, according to his temperament. There is no question of his determination, but somehow he has reached the end of his tether, and neither by argument nor experience can he be enticed one step further. It is waste of time to attempt to entice him forward; as useless as holding out a carrot to a donkey on the other side of the Great Wall of China. Yet he may be a man of considerable parts. You will find him distinguished in any of the learned faculties. He may be a Wrangler, (the Cambridge variety), a great lawyer, or a brilliant strategist, but always and forever will he fail to lead the unemphasied card that will save the game—though should the card be clearly denoted he will lead it unhesitatingly. After all, he must have some assets of play to reach a six handicap.

These six handicap men are puritanically conventional and the shibboleths of the game are theirs for all time. Take the lead through strength. We will assume that the same old A. and B. are playing against a strong spade declaration made by the antediluvian X. Y. combination. The six handicap man, in this case, A. who, his partner not having declared, leads King, from Ace, King, and two Diamonds. Dummy is put down with five Clubs to Ace, Queen, Knave, two Diamonds and nothing else of importance. Obviously it does not look a good thing to lead out the Ace of Diamonds and lose command of the suit or make the road easy for dummy to ruff a Diamond later, so A., having three small trumps, three Hearts to the Queen, and three small Clubs, resorts to the shibboleth and leads a small Club. Dummy plays the Knave and B. reluctantly wins the trick with the King. There being nothing else for it, B. leads back a Heart—bang comes the Ace on it, trumps are then cleared and the Club suit, being established, the fortunate X. or Y. (whichever happens to be playing the hand) is able to discard his losing Hearts on Dummy's Clubs and so win the game.

Very probably B., a good player but unwise in his remarks points out to A. that the only chance of saving the game was to lead a small Heart from the Queen, because if he (B.) has the King, the Ace is drawn and when the Knave of Clubs is finessed, as eventually it must be, B. after winning with the King, can return a Heart, allowing A. to make his Queen and play out the Ace of Diamonds, so saving the game. B. is absolutely correct in his deductions, because if both the Ace and King of Hearts are against them, they must lose the game, however the hand is played B's King of Clubs is always certain to make as the finesse in Dummy must be taken to clear the suit. The only chance is to make a trick of Hearts before the Clubs are established.

Do you think B. gets any satisfaction for his criticism? Not a bit. A. glowing with virtue, leans back in his chair and replies, "My dear fellow, I led through the strength. That must be right."

The unfortunate part of it is that A. has, on the card-room mantelpiece, a great deal of literature to back him up. So another rubber is lost and A. still retains his handicap of six, because he was unable to see that, with the trumps obviously against them, they (A. and B.) had to make a trick in Hearts to save the game.

* * *

It can be easily demonstrated that against a strong suit declaration, it is nearly always inadvisable to lead through the strength because, sooner or later, the player of the Dummy will lead up to that suit and if the fourth hand is over it, his cards must make. The one exception is when there is a second strong suit in Dummy headed by a tierce major, in which circumstance it is advisable to lead through the Ace, Queen, or King, Knave suit, in case the player of the hand is enabled to get discards in his own hand by playing out the tierce suit in Dummy.

Christy Mathewson Is Making Great Fight For Health

Saranac Lake (N. Y.), November 9.—Christy Mathewson may win his fight against the attack of tuberculosis. Dr. Packard, his physician, has informed his wife that the chances are now in his favor. He is still in a darkened room and able to see few visitors, and he has not been able to enter upon the fresh-air cure. But gas treatments have helped to clear his right lung, his fever is gone and he is gaining weight and strength.

"If Christy would only let off steam," remarked Mrs. Mathewson in telling of his brightened prospects, "if he only would not be as silent now as he was when in good health, it would do him good."

"Have you any theory as to when he contracted the disease?" Mrs. Mathewson was asked.

"I think the beginning of it was in France," she replied. "He had influenza there. Besides, as assistant gas officer to the 28th Division, he demonstrated lethal gas shells to students and inhaled much of the gases. When he came back the first hard cold he developed settled into a cough he could not shake off. He returned in February, 1919, and during that summer he showed a strange lassitude. He had lost the pep that used to be in his baseball work."

NIGHT FOOTBALL NEWEST SPORT IN UNITED STATES

Philadelphia Drill Hall Is Used By Teams For Winter Season

Philadelphia, Dec. 10.—The football season may be officially closed, but Philadelphians are not through with the game. While the big college and amateur followers of the pigskin have soaked their togs in moth balls, four score or more of Quaker boys have just opened a season of "indoor football."

Ten thousand enthusiastic supporters of the gridiron are witnessing the sport weekly. The games are being played in the evening instead of afternoon.

The Second City Troop, Pennsylvania State Police, who for years have taken a large part in independent state athletics, were the originators of the new indoor sport. Manager Joseph P. Maguire, formerly end on the Villanova eleven, has arranged a schedule that may extend throughout the winter. Lew Little, former Penn star, is the coach.

The big new drill hall of the calvary armory here, at one time planned to hold the biggest horse shows in these parts, is being used by the troopers for daily workouts and weekly contests with rival troop elevens in the state.

The huge vaulted roof of the hall is far higher than the loftiest punts ever travel. The playing surface is tan bark. Regulation uniforms, including cleated shoes, are being used. The playing field has been shortened five yards to permit sufficient space to catch forward passes back of the goal line. The kick-off, however, takes place on the 40-yard line. The field is of regulation width. Lighting effects are perfect. Powerful arclights with top reflectors make the entire hall as brilliant as a cloudless midday.

The "ghost ball," instead of the ordinary colored oval, is being used because it can be better seen in the artificial light.

Art Fletcher Turns Down Manager's Job

Chicago, November 7.—It is said that President Baker of the Phillies offered the position of manager to Art Fletcher, shortstop, who was traded to the Phillies by the Giants last spring, but Fletcher turned it down flat. Baker is now said to be after Mike Kelly, who has had remarkable success as manager of the St Paul team in the American Association.

Kelly has been hankering to break into the majors for many years, and it is believed he will accept the offer to rebuild the Phillies. He will have a tough job. The team will have to be reconstructed from top to bottom, and material is very scarce. The Phillies have no trading material and it is practically impossible to buy first-class players.

CALIFORNIA BATTLES OHIO IN INTERSECTIONAL GAME AT PASADENA SATURDAY

Andy Smith's Eleven From Berkeley To Play Ohio State Team In Gridiron Set-to Which Brings Mid-Western Footballers To West Coast

California is to meet Ohio State in the annual football classic at Pasadena on New Year's day, and Walter D. Powell, coach at Stanford, is an important figure. This is why: Powell graduated from Wisconsin, the same school that Jack Wilce, coach of Ohio State, came from.

Powell played against Ohio State, and after he graduated he coached a team that played against Ohio State. So he knows a lot about Wilce and his system. Also Powell had a good look at the California team when it defeated his Stanford team, and being a close student of the game Walter has some important information about both teams.

Walt is in a peculiar position. As a Wisconsin man he would like to see Wilce win. That is the personal side. But on the professional side Powell is coaching at Stanford, and is for California against the world, so he wants California to win that game at Pasadena.

SMITH WANTED PRINCETON

Andy Smith wanted a crack at Princeton, and he is disappointed that he is not to get it. Andy figures that Penn State is the strongest team in the country; Pittsburg comes next: Ohio State third and Princeton fourth. It would have given California much more prestige to beat Princeton than one of the Middle Western teams, Andy thinks, and it would not have been such a tough game.

The way Andy figures it, Ohio State will be harder to beat than Yale, Harvard or Princeton, and if he does win. California will not get nearly as much credit as if it won from one of the big three. Walter Powell agrees with him. Powell says Ohio State is one of the best teams in the country, but that school has no football history, and the team that plays that aggregation will have a tough battle and very little glory if it wins.

PLAYS OPEN GAMES

Powell says Ohio State plays an open game almost entirely, depending upon end runs, forward passes and kicking to advance the ball. Most of the plays are started from punt formation, and that keeps the opposition guessing. Stinchcomb and the Workman brothers are mighty tricky players in the backfield, and they will take any kind of a chance.

Coach Wilce is a serious-minded man who played fullback at Wisconsin, and he is a master for detail. He has been at Ohio State six years, and since the first two years he has had his team one-two in the Big Ten conference, where the competition is very keen.

Powell thinks well of the California team, and he believes California and Ohio State will put up a battle worth going miles to see. It should provide the best football of the year, he thinks.

STINCHCOMB STAR

In the Middle West, where they have some mighty good football teams, Gale "Pete" Stinchcomb of Ohio State is regarded as a worthy successor of Chick Harley, who was considered one of the best backs in that region since the days of the mighty Heston of Michigan. "Pete" is not as good an all-round man as Harley, but he is a fine man running with the ball, good at passing or receiving passes; a cool, collected field general, and a mighty important cog in the Ohio State machine, which won the championship of the Big Ten conference.

Walter Eckersall, who was quite a player himself in his day, says Stinchcomb is the smartest player in the Middle West this year, and his brain work pulled out victories against Wisconsin, Chicago, and then won the championship by beating Illinois. The last game was won in the last minute of play.

Races Postponed To January Third

The New Year's meeting of the Shanghai Race Club, which will be for the benefit of the Shanghai War Memorial Fund, has been postponed to Monday. The first saddling bell will be rung at 10:45 o'clock and there are to be four races. There will be no charge for admission to the races. The total net proceeds will go to the War Memorial Fund.

AGED ATHLETES DEFY YOUNGER IN SPORT WORLD

Youngsters have come so completely in power that outside of baseball, an athlete is considered on the back slide when he rounds the twenty-eighth mile-stone of his course.

Like with all rules, however, the exceptions to this rule are more interesting than its proofs.

Age battled with youth more evenly in the Olympic games than in any other contest of recent years.

Take Albert Hill, for instance, the British runner who was one of the two athletes to win two events.

Hill is thirty-five years of age and retired from athletics before the war, yet he came back and won the 800 and 1,500 meter runs.

Hodge, the British cross country runner, is another notable comeback. He is thirty-two years of age and had been out of a track suit for five years. Yet he outran a field of young blood and won the 3,000 meter steeplechase.

Phillip Baker, another 30-year-old Englishman, was second in the high jump and beat Dick Landon in the dual meet between the American and English teams in London after the Olympic games.

The Finns had Jonnie Myrra, a thirty-four-year-old giant, who threw the javelin for a world's record.

Among our boxing celebrities is the veteran Jack Britton, welterweight champion, who clings to his title although he is 35 years of age. Johnny Kilbane, gray haired at thirty-two, is still the featherweight champion.

Baseball lists veterans galore who are still active, although "well up in years," as Dode Paskert, 39; Gavvy Cravath, 38; Jake Daubert, 35; Ed Konetchy, 35; Ivy Olson, 38; Larry Doyle, 34; Art Fletcher, 34; Ty Cobb 34; Eddie Collins, 33 Ping Bodie, 33, and Ainsmith, 33.

Consortium Representative Guest Of Chinese Bankers

A dinner was given in the Chinese Naval Club on Bubbling Well Road to Mr. F. W. Stevens, the Representative of the American Banking Group in the Consortium, by Mr. Fu Siao-en and Y. M. Chien, representing the Ministry of Finance and the Chinese American Bank of Commerce. There were present American and Chinese officials and prominent merchants and businessmen, among them being Judge C. S. Lobingier, U. S. Consul Perkins, Major C. P. Holcomb, Mr. J. H. Dollar, Major Arthur Bassett, General Ho Feng-ling, the Military Governor, General Wang, the Commissioner of Foreign Affairs, Admirals Lang and Tu, the Taoyin, Messrs. Chu Pao-san, Chin Jung-ching, Shen Lien-fang, Chow Chin-chen, Shen Shu-yu, S. K. Chen and others.

MR. FU SIAO-EN SPEAKS

Mr. Fu Siao-en toasted Mr. Stevens and his remarks were translated by Mr. Chang Nieh-yun, Advisory Foreign Secretary of the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce, who said:

"Mr. Stevens, American friends, Gentlemen: The honor has been conferred upon me to address a few words of welcome to Mr. Stevens on behalf of Mr. Fu Siao-en and Mr. Y. M. Chien, representing the Ministry of Finance. Mr. Fu also represents Mr. Thomas and Mr. Hsu En-yuan of the American Chinese Bank of Commerce. I cannot understand why I have been chosen for this honor except perhaps for the fact that I may claim to be a very small member of the legal profession in which our guest has shone with such distinction, and that I have been enabled to enter this honorable profession through an American Chinese Law School which has been carried on mainly through the help of warmed hearted American lawyers, Judge Lobingier and other gentlemen practising at this port.

"We had the pleasure of meeting Mr. Lamont when he passed through here some time ago and tonight we welcome Mr. Stevens with an equal degree of pleasure. We want to extend to Mr. Stevens a sincere and cordial welcome to our midst. Words are unnecessary to prove our sincerity when we look upon this gathering of prominent gentlemen met here to do honor to our guest and friend. We have here the leading American and Chinese officials, merchants, bankers, industry leaders and businessmen, and with one accord we bid welcome to Mr. Stevens.

EXTENDS WELCOME

"We welcome him as a friend, a true friend, and we believe he will be a friend in need. When we think of the help in various ways given by our large-hearted American friends instances of which need not be recapitulated, we cannot meet our friend without a very warm and spontaneous feeling of friendship and attachment being kindled in our breasts.

"Great and beneficient as this help has been it is going to be even surpassed by the help which will be rendered by Mr. Stevens and his banking group and which will be the crowning service our brethren of the western Republic will be able to perform to their less fortunate fellows in this Republic across the Pacific. This help will consist in assisting to arrange for loans to be made to our country to be applied in and for constructive reforms to set her on her feet.

"Mr. Stevens' professional and business career has been a brilliant one and is well-known, but it is not so much his business talents and acumen but his higher qualities which we shall have to look to as his broad altruism, his sense of justice and his genuine friendship.

"With his knowledge of China he will agree with us when we say that China has an immense territory, a vast population and unbounded resources, and besides the Chinese ourselves, the people who will be friends to China and the Chinese, who will assist us in developing trade and industry; and instruct us in the best methods of business and government, in the latest developments that science has bequeathed to mankind, and in the philosophic and higher truths known to the sphere of culture, will be the people who will and should enjoy with us the fruits of such resources and development.

CO-OPERATION NECESSARY

"That Americans and Chinese are working in harmony and co-operation is seen in numerous instances, and the most notable of them is the opening of the American Chinese Bank of Commerce at this port not long ago. It is hoped that similar concerns will be on the increase to form another bulwark to the friendship that exists so strongly between our peoples.

"Mr. Stevens will carry great weight with the Consortium in shaping their policy and we feel that where it is not incompatible with the best interests of Consortium and his banking Group, he will do the right thing by China. We hope that he will study conditions and popular views in our country, make full allowance for our shortcomings and give a wide berth to the peculiar susceptibilities of our people in general. When the Consortium has succeeded in arranging loans to China and these are expended on right lines it will be a lasting boon to a very considerable portion of the human race and the result will be a blessing to the world.

"We will now rise and drink to the good health of Mr. Stevens and success to his banking group."

MR. STEVENS REPLIES

Mr. Stevens replied to the toast and thanked the hosts and others for the honor done him. He stated that he was able to confirm all that Mr. Lamont had said with regard to the American group. He said that from what he had seen and heard he felt the heavy responsibilities of the American group and the Consortium, but that the Chinese could rest assured that every care would be taken to come to the right conclusions and that whatever was done by the Consortium it will not be to the detriment of China.

General Ho Feng-ling proposed the health of the guest on behalf of the Army and Navy and Mr. Chow Chin-chen also expressed words of welcome.

Suggest Foreign Protest To Surtax

and the Chinese Chamber of Commerce to protest against the proposals of the Chinese Government, and however effective the Chinese protest will be, we believe the foreign business interests could make representations through their Ministers in Peking and so prevent this surtax loan from being handled by any but the recognised Famine Relief Committees in Tientsin, Peking, Shanghai, Kaifeng, etc. Certainly there is no guarantee at all in the Government proposals, notwithstanding their appointment of an Audit-Board in Peking.

"What is wanted is that this surtax money be sent to the right people for distribution and that it be used to buy food now. Railway construction schemes are of no avail until the Spring, and one wonders if the Government proposals are anything more than words."

WOMEN'S FAMINE RELIEF SOCIETY NEEDS MORE FUND

The following report has been received from the Women's Famine Relief Society:

Orders have been placed with different piece goods firms to the amount of 4500 suits. As this will make a considerable hole in the funds, it is hoped that the Society may receive generous New Year gifts in the way of money, to enable the relief work to be carried on.

The work parties are doing splendid work, and evince a very healthy appetite for materials, which has to be constantly appeased.

List of garments produced by working parties; Mrs. Cranston 89 padded quilts, 68 padded garments, Mesdames Ivy and Gauntlett 43 garments, Mrs. H. C. Marshall 58 garments, Mrs. R. B. Mauchan 27 garments, Mrs. H. E. Shadgett padded garments.

Messrs. Singer and Co. have presented a generous gift of $1,000 for clothing.

Messrs. Arnhold Bros. have again sent a donation of cotton waste for padded garments.

Messrs. Anderson Meyer and Co. have kindly given a quantity of sewing cotton.

The International Recreation Club have given 200 padded suits, which they have kindly had made.

The tickets are to be $5.00 each, and full particulars can be obtained from Mrs. O. M. Green, 54, Avenue du Roi Albert. The statues are on view until January 3 at the French Town Hall, where tickets can be had, and they form a part of M. Bigazzi's exhibition there.

Alsace Residents Taking Up French

(Reuter's French Wireless)

Paris, Dec. 29.—An inquiry recently made in the industrial centers of the Bas Rhein district of Alsace, to determine the extent of the interest taken in the French language, has yielded gratifying results. Out of a total of 39,820 workmen employed in the hundred establishments visited, only 3,704 were found to be ignorant of French.

Between March 31, 1918 and December 31, 1919, substantial progress was achieved for 21,000 members of the population had learned to express themselves in French: In the course of 1920 this number amounted to 29,000, of whom 22,000 both speak and write the language. This success is partly due to the popular courses organised by the manufacturers, who have been establishing classes in their factories.

Ayer Tawah Rubber Co. Meeting

The annual general meeting of the Ayer Tawah Rubber Plantation Co., Ltd. was held at the General Chamber of Commerce yesterday. There were present among the directors Messrs. J. H. Teesdale, chairman; Leslie J. Cubitt, Thos. Cock and R. N. Swann. The number of shares represented were 2,065.

The secretary having read the notice convening the meeting and the auditors' report, the chairman said:

Directors meet shareholders under different conditions to those of previous years. At former annual general meeting the rubber industry was full of promise: there were expectations that the requirements of those industries that utilised rubber would, with the post war revival of trade, be difficult to meet, and belligerent countries would again be in the market. All these hopes have been unrealised: in fact from various causes, which you know only too well, the price of first grade rubber today has receded to the unprecedented figure of 20 cents per lb. and even at that price large unsold stocks are accumulating while our all-in cost of production as shown in the report in your hands is Straits $0.43.51.

This of course is a state of affairs without parallel in the history of the company and the board has taken very seriously under consideration, as many other rubber companies are also doing, what policy of retrenchment would in the circumstances best meet the situation, until the rubber industry is restored to normal conditions and we are in smooth waters again.

ABLE TO TIDE OVER

Fortunately the very beneficial terms under which the company purchased the Ayer Tawah Estate from the vendors in 1909 and the conservative policy since followed have placed the company in a position to meet a crisis such as the one we are now experiencing, and the capital reserves which you will see in the balance sheet before you will enable us to tide over the present and coming lean months for some time to come, though it must be understood that these reserves will have to be drawn upon unless the position improves in the near future.

Meanwhile the Federated Malay States Government have, as many of you are probably aware, lost no time in considering measures for coming to the rescue of the industry, and our agents have cabled us to the effect that legislation is under consideration the effect of which will be to compel companies to reduce their production by a certain percentage, and to subsidize those estates which find it financially impossible to meet the ordinary expenses of upkeep.

The Rubber Growers' Association recommended in September last that all estates in Malaya should restrict their output by 25 percent and your directors decided to fall into line, by resting certain of the fields where bark renewal requires most attention.

PLANS REDUCTION

Such reduction will probably however prove to be inadequate in view of the rapid drop in the present price of rubber, and further curtailment of production is now receiving the serious consideration of your Directors.

Meanwhile the manager has partially reduced the output by stopping Sunday tapping and is storing approximately 50 percent of his output on the estate.

The manager, Mr. Harrop, is still in England on extended leave without remuneration, and is expected back shortly on the estate. Mr. A. Jeffrey, who in view of the difficult problems he has had to face during the year has filled the position of acting manager during Mr. Harrop's absence in a manner which has given the Board every satisfaction, will go home on leave in February.

Mr. L. J. Cubitt visited the estate in October last.

To turn now to the report and accounts, which, with your permission, I will take as read:

TAPS 21 MORE ACRES

As regards the report you will see that another 21 acres came into the tapping area during the year. No planting up was done on Newlands owing to shortage of labor. Before the position of the rubber industry became acute contracts were entered into to fell and clear 140 acres of Newlands in 1920/21, and permits were obtained from the Netherlands and Indian Government to recruit 100 Javanese. This matter is unfortunately too advanced for the board to consider now any question of rescission, but as Straits $25,000 Federated Malay States 6 percent War Loan, 1921 and certain local (Shanghai) debentures were set aside some years ago to meet this expenditure, it will create no immediate additional capital burden on the Estate. In considering the remaining items in the estimates for the current year, every effort will be made by the Directors to cut out everything which is not absolutely essential.

LABOR UNRESTS

Labor in the Federated Malay States has been a source of anxiety during the year. It will be noticed in the report that there was no increase in the force at the end of the year over that at the end of the previous one in spite of the expectations expressed in the chairman's speech last year. Living expenses in the Federated Malay States as in most other parts of the world have gone up, causing a state of unrest among all employees of rubber estates and has resulted in a large increase in wages or in rice rations allowed in lieu of increased wages. The cost of supervision has also increased for the same reason.

All-in cost of production is Straits $0.43.51 as compared to Straits $0.42.94 last year and is due to the aforesaid increase of supervision and wages, losses in rice ration allowances, increase of Tamil assessments and recruiting expenses, reserves for home pay and passages of foreign staff and the tael expenditure showing a higher value in Straits in consequence of high exchange. The high cost of rice during the period under review has resulted in a loss of Straits $16,874.36 as compared with Straits $5,431.53 for the previous year. I am glad to say however that there are indications that the cost of this commodity shows signs of weakening and it is hoped that this loss will, in our next accounts, show a considerable reduction.

ESTIMATE EXCEEDED

The out-put exceeded the estimate by 24,300 lbs.

Owing to the uncertainty of the position and the reduction of output already decided on no estimate can be given you of the output for the current year.

Turning to the accounts: it will be seen that the balance sheet shows investments in hand which cost Shanghai Taels 108,456.34 valued according to their market value and exchange as at September 30 at approximately Tls. 71,000.

ASSETS STAND LOW

As our assets stand at a very low book value in fact considerably below the present actual value, depreciation has been written off on a new basis, viz. buildings 10 percent, machinery 15 percent, tools, implements, live stock and vehicles at 20 percent all on book value instead of on the actual first cost as hitherto.

The amount of sundry creditors is made up of the usual items, wages due to coolies, commissions due to manager and staff, estimated selling charges on stocks, audit fee and reserve for home pay and passages of men on furlough. Sundry debtors consist of interest accrued, the remainder being sundries at Estate including rubber sales sold in London and not paid.

Other items in the balance sheet are so fully dealt with in the report, that it is unnecessary for me to explain them further.

TLS. 48,856.55 PROFIT

As to profit and loss account. The total profit for 1919-20 was $48,856.55 against which Tls. 43,765 has been paid out in two interim dividends of 10 percent each, declared in March and June respectively. Including an amount of Tls. 21,614.58 brought forward last year the balance at credit of profit and loss account is Tls. 26,713.13 which the directors propose to ask you to decide to carry forward.

Of the directorate Messrs. A. Samson and R. N. Truman retired on leaving for home, the vacancies thus created being filled by Messrs. R. N. Swann and T. Cock, whose election requires your confirmation.

The resignation of Mr. Samson on his retirement from China was a loss which was keenly felt by the Board. He had been a director from the incorporation of the company, and to his initiative were due the negotiations which resulted in its purchase of the estate from the old company in 1909.

His help and guidance and the keen interest he displayed in the company's affairs and the sound knowledge he had of all matters pertaining to the rubber trade will be much missed by his colleagues.

Before proposing the adoption of the Report and the passing of the accounts I shall be pleased to reply to any questions any shareholder may wish to ask relative to them.

CAPTAIN PURSLOW SPEAKS

Captain P. R. Purslow asked the chairman as to the future policy of the company. He said that a vigorous system of thorough economy was necessary in order to face the unfortunate conditions created by the exchange and other factors. Mr. Teesdale referred Captain Purslow to the first part of his speech and assured him that the directorate would take every possible step to reduce the expenses.

In answering Captain Purslow's question on the reduction of staff, Mr. Teesdale stated that the present staff of the estate was barely sufficient to cope with the situation. He then expressed his thanks to Captain Purslow for his queries, after which the following resolutions were unanimously passed:

That the report and statement of accounts for the year ended September 30, 1920, as presented be accepted and passed and that the balance of Tls. 26,713.13 standing at credit of profit and loss account be carried forward. Proposed by J. H. Teesdale and seconded by Leslie J. Cubitt.

That the election of Mr. R. N. Swann as a director be and is hereby confirmed. Proposed by J. H. Teesdale and seconded by Leslie T. Cubitt.

That the election of Mr. Thomas Cock as a director be and is hereby confirmed. Proposed by Leslie T. Cubitt and seconded by J. H. Teesdale.

That Messrs. Lowe, Bingham and Matthews be re-elected auditors at a remuneration of Tls. 300.00 including Straits audit. Proposed by T. Hunter and seconded by E. Samson.

Many Women In Need Of Work In London

(Reuter's Service)

London, Dec. 29.—The large number of unemployed women is only less serious in degree than the case of unemployed men. There are numerous vacancies in domestic service, but women are apparently showing an increasing dislike for house-work, and especially for sleeping in.

There were 46,000 unemployed women on the registers of the Labor Exchanges in November but 11,000 out of 33,000 vacant situations remained unfilled. The Ministry of Labor is arranging a scheme for training in domestic work those women desirous of learning, thereby meeting cases where applicants for situations admit their inability even to wash a cup and saucer, or to boil potatoes.

Siccawei Weather Reports

29.—Same situation as yesterday: deep depression on the Kuriles and large anticyclone on the continent, with a center to the NW of Mukden. Strong winter monsoon all along our coasts; hard cyclone winds in the depression. Rainy day here, in Yangtse Valley and in Central China, clearing up in the N.

30.—Continuous rain. The pressure is falling at a fairly quick rate. Fresh NNE breezes with occasional squalls.

A GOOD RESO UTION for T IE NEW YEAR

Well, it's been a pretty rotten year for most of us, what with Revolutions, Famine, Bad Trade—and EXCHANGE!

"Nuff sed" about the latter—it's rather too painful a subject for most "Shanghailanders." It's enough to upset any man's digestion even to contemplate our present debilitated dollar. But talking about Digestions, Debility and Dollars why worry when the good old "dollar a dose" remedy is always at hand. It may not be able to raise the dollar but it can—and does—raise your spirits, improve your digestion and enable you to contemplate exchange fluctuations with stoical calm.

For over 70 years Beecham's Pills have been banishing gloom and it is wonderful how sunny life becomes after a short course of them.

Defendant.
Cause No. 1045
Decision
Filed December 30, 1920.
Deputy Clerk.

SYLLABUS

1. Actions: Premature Institution. An action to recover back earnest money paid on a contract whose time for performance has not expired is premature.

2. Id.: Id.: Evidence examined and found insufficient to show either unwillingness or inability to perform at the required time.

3. Id.: Id.: Pleading. Where prematurity appears on the face of the petition it is a ground of demurrer; but the defect is not waived by failure to demur and "is available at any stage of the proceeding."

4. Id.: Set off may be allowed against a foreign plaintiff only to the extent of his recovery.

Messrs. Fleming, Davies and Bryan and T. Murakami, Esquire for plaintiff.

LOBINGIER J.

This is an action to recover back the sum of Tls. 268,000 paid as earnest money on a contract for the purchase of certain cotton spinning machinery, and for damages. The petition alleges that "plaintiff has been ready and willing at all times to perform" but that defendant "has admitted. . . its inability." The answer is, in the main, a general denial but two set offs are pleaded.

The contract was executed December 6, 1919, and provides for "shipment and delivery in Shanghai from 5 to 7 months"—presumably from the date when the contract went into effect. But the petition alleges and the answer admits, the execution of a "supplemental agreement" on December 26. Whether or not the latter extended the time of performance it is clear that defendant had, at least, until the close of July 6, 1920 to deliver. But the petition was filed on July 2 and the action was, consequently brought prematurely. For plaintiff could not rescind (and hence would not be entitled to the earnest money) until defendant was default.

There are two situations which will excuse premature suing, viz. (1) when defendant declares his intention not to perform and (2) when he has put it out of his power to do so. We have seen that plaintiff alleges defendant's admission of inability to perform. That allegation is expressly denied and we find no evidence that he admitted inability to deliver in July. Nor is there an averment that defendant "put it out of its power" to perform. Indeed we find no express allegation that it has failed to perform. But it is contended in plaintiff's brief that "defendant has never been able to perform." The evidence discloses that about the time the contract was formed defendant secured an option for ten days on machinery answering to that called for. This was later extended for sixty days again for an indefinite period and was not withdrawn until May 5. The grantor testified (p. 161) that the machinery was still available at the time of the trial in the midst of which defendant's counsel made the following announcement which elicited no response from plaintiff:

"The defendant company, Wilkins Bros. and Company, Inc., are ready and willing at this time, and hereby offer the defendant the machinery called for under the contract upon their placing a substantial security in cash with the Asia Banking Corporation, Shanghai. The machinery is now available and always has been."

In seeking an extension of the option defendant stated as a reason "that our buyers have been promising to open the credit every day" and elsewhere in the correspondence it is apparent that defendant relied for payment on the credit which, by defendant's permission, plaintiff was to open. Without further adverting to that point now, if plaintiff did open such a credit, so that defendant could use it, the failure to do so seems unaccountable in view of defendant's natural desire to complete the sale and reap the profit. Not only does the evidence fail to show that defendant was unwilling, or voluntarily "put it out of its power," to perform but the fact seems to be that defendant had every reason to desire performance and that a pri ori, at least, default would not be caused by it.

Plaintiff's counsel complain that the option secured by defendant was unsupported by a consideration. That point might have been raised by the grantor if used to enforce the option; but so long as he was ready, as he testified he was, to carry it out, we are unable to see how the point can avail plaintiff.

It is also claimed that the option called for "mule" spindles while plaintiff desired "ring" spindles. But the very first confirmation of it specifies "ring" spindles and this was the one accepted by plaintiff. It is true that a subsequent letter accepts an "offer" of "mule" spindles; but it contains nothing necessarily identifying it with the option which had already been accepted. Besides, the contract did not call for "ring" or any other particular kind of spindles.

Defendant had, at least, all of July 6 to deliver the spindles called for by the contract and plaintiff could not, on July 2, assume that defendant would be unable to perform by July 6 even if it were subsequently proved (which we do not think it was), that it could not. Indeed its open court offer seems never to have been withdrawn and it is to be hoped that plaintiff will yet avail himself thereof.

Since the prematurity of the action appears on the face of the petition defendant might have demurred on that ground. But such a defect is not waived by failure to demur; it "is available at any stage of the proceeding" and may be raised by the court sua sponte even on appeal. It would surely be no kindness to plaintiff to render a judgment here, even if the evidence otherwise justified it, which the Court of Appeals would be obliged to reverse if the point were brought to its attention.

The set offs pleaded by defendant are not, under a well settled rule in this jurisdiction, available against plaintiff, who is a Japanese subject, except to the extent of his recovery and as there can be none such here they need receive no further attention.

It is accordingly considered and adjudged that plaintiff take nothing by his petition and defendant nothing by its answer and that there be no allowance of costs to either party.

By the Court.
CHARLES, S. LOBINGIER,
Judge.

START UNIONS IN INDIA

One result of the war in India has been the advent of the labor leader and the labor union. The thousands of Indian troops serving on the western front brought back western ideas of working conditions and wages, and this, added to the increase in the cost of living—an increase in many cases which made it impossible for the Indian worker to eke out an existence on the old wage—has resulted in much unrest. There has developed much agitation for improvements in working conditions aside from a mere rise in wages.

While there are unmistakable signs that Eastern labor is about to follow the lines of Western labor, there is no feeling that the workers should share in the profits of the industry.

Prior to the outbreak of the war there was much sentiment in India against a reduction in the hours for work. The workers preferred long hours, so that in the hot season they could take their time and work leisurely. In some instances the workers actually revolted against shorter hours, but the present demands not only call for a cut in hours, but concern sanitary and other improvements in conditions of employment, and even leave benefits.

The petition recently submitted by the workers on the Government presses is typical of the general movement throughout the country. They ask that overtime be reduced to the minimum that peice workers be followed leave according to the rules of the Civil Service, that twenty years of service qualify for a pension and that fines for bad work or for absence be abolished. They also express themselves as for the substitution of a fixed wage for piece work.

Coal Market

Messrs. Wheelock and Company write as follows in their coal market report dated December 30.

Japan Coal.—Owing to the Holidays which have intervened since last writing there has not been any business done worth speaking about and there is consequently nothing fresh to report; —in Japan the coal market remains equally dull.

Fushun Coal.—No change.

Kaiping Coal.—The congestion at Chinwangtao still continues by reason of a serious shortage of rolling stock between the Mines and that port. This has the effect of reducing stocks in Shanghai and Outports, and until these difficulties are overcome it will be possible only to fulfill bare requirements under contract. Stocks are necessarily accumulating at the Mines.

WATER ROUTING TO ORIENT URGED

American Lecturer Would Have East Coast Of America Save Shipping Expenses

Manila, December 18.—By using all water transportation from shipping points in the Eastern part of the United States, freight rates to the Far East can be cut in half, according to Marcus Stow Hill, a lecturer on foreign trade who is now in Manila, but who was formerly connected with Northwestern and Chicago Universities.

"The solution of the high cost of freight is the all water route," Mr. Hill says. "On automobiles for example, through bills of lading over the all water route may be obtained from Detroit and Chicago; and of course from St. Louis the same routing for shoes, stoves, etc. could be obtained. Use of the Panama canal makes this possible.

"The Pacific Ocean rate is $12.50 a ton to Shanghai, and the rate from Chicago to the Pacific coast is $50 a ton plus the recent increase of 33-1/3 percent. Let us say, a total of $79.50 a ton accumulates on goods shipped from Chicago to Shanghai when they are routed by rail from Chicago to the coast.

ISLAND RATE INCREASSED

"If the Panama route were used, the charge would be $35 approximately, the goods would come down the Mississippi River to New Orleans, the Gulf of Mexico and then to the canal and out to the Pacific. The charge from Chicago to Panama would be approximately $15, and from Panama to Shanghai about $20, the total being $35."

An increase of 110 percent in cargo rates and of 50 percent in passenger rates has been granted to the Cebu Shipowners Association by the Public Utilities Commission. The association controls 30 interisland steamers, owned by 22 firms or individuals. The owners asserted that they were unable to operate at a profit under the former scale of rates, having recently raised the wages of the crews as the result of a strike threat.

Freight Market

Messrs. Wheelock and Company write as follows in their freight market report dated December 30.

The situation in our Outward Freight market is as follows:

To United Kingdom and Continent.—The market remains in the same lifeless condition which has been its chief characteristic for some time past and there are no symptons which suggest an early improvement.

To United States via Pacific and via Panama and Suez.—The export trade to the States has practically ceased to exist owing to the stagnation in the home markets and there is absolutely nothing to report.

Coastwise.—This market still remains quiet and is likely to do so until after the Holidays.

We take this opportunity of wishing our readers the compliments of the Season and a prosperous New Year.

Shipping Board Aid Refused In America

New Agreement Calls For Specified Percentages On All Cargoes

Word has been received in Yokohama that the recent agreement between shipping men and the United States Shipping Board was influenced by the big companies in New York and that the proposition of the Shipping Board to help tide over the present slack time was rejected.

According to information received there the offer made by the Shipping Board was that all managing operators of vessels were to receive a preliminary monthly payment of $200 per bottom for incidental expenses. For overhead they were to receive $15 per deadweight ton per month. Taking an 8,000 deadweight ton steamer as a fair example of the average, this meant that the operators would receive $1,400 for handling each steamer per month. In addition each operator was to receive a fair percentage of all profit made by their ships. Should all their ships lose money and they could still show efficient operation and loss, due only to natural conditions, they would still received their monthly payments.

It is understood that the New York operators fought the proposition, which was backed by those on the Pacific Coast. They won their point and the agreement presented by them was accepted. This calls for straight commission of five percent on outward bound cargo and two and one half percent on inward bound cargo. This agreement goes back to March first. At the time vessels were carrying capacity cargoes a fair profit was realised, but the present cargoes of a few hundred tons show a loss and smaller companies without large reserves will suffer.

PACIFIC S.S. COMPANY

Compilations completed by the staff of the Pacific Steamship Company show that the big Seattle corporation has sent 41 American shipping men to the Orient in the last two years, in the same space of time has established eight major branches in the chief ports of Japan, China, Siberia and the Philippines and in addition has established more than 50 agencies in the outports of the Orient. Also, in the two years, it has handled more than 250 American ships in Oriental ports.

D'Annunzio's Menace Ended

THAT the attempt of d'Annunzio to destroy the Treaty of Rapallo distinctly menaced the peace of Europe is revealed by a study of the treaty itself. Mr. Frank H. Simonds, America's foremost student of European involvements, declared in an article written on November 29 for the McClure Syndicate, that the Adriatic dispute "already had served to demolish the alliance that conquered Germany," but he saw in this Rapallo settlement "a thoroughly sound and reasonable bargain."

It is this bargain that d'Annunzio was seeking to break. This famous poet and brave soldier, launched in a foolhardy enterprise, succeeded only in getting his own head broke—this is, if we omit the considerable number of his brother Italians who have met death supporting or opposing him.

With his flight will come final peace in the Adriatic, for then the Treaty of Rapallo will come into full force. What this treaty seeks to accomplish is best told by Mr. Simonds, who says that if it is put into effect it will have a very wide and beneficial influence upon the whole existing European situation.

The necessity for the Italian Government's resort to arms in order to suppress d'Annunzio—that being the only method whereby he could be suppressed—thus becomes clear. It was imperative. He was menacing the peace, not only of Italy and Jugo-Slavia but of all Europe. Mr. Simonds says in part:

"The settlement avoids all the pitfalls and dangers of the league of nations. In a word, we have to deal neither with a Danzig solution, the fatal weakness of which was disclosed in the crisis of the recent Russo-Polish war, nor with a Sarre basin adjustment, which amounts only to postponing for fifteen years all actual solution and at the same time keeping alive all the causes of strife.

"In the Rapallo conference both Italy and Jugo-Slavia have shown surprising moderation. The victory, if victory there be in the solution, is found not so much in the fact that the Italians have succeeded in saving Fiume from Slav rule and league of nations complexity, but rather in the fact that, while preparing the way for ultimate annexation of Fiume and fixing their northern frontier at last upon the crest of the Alps, from Switzerland to the Quarnero, Italy has, at the same time, left the door open for that friendly relation between Slav and Latin which was the dream of Mazzini.

"It is idle now to go back over all the long and troubled history of the Adriatic question in detail, yet one must glance backward for the moment, if only to see the future and the present significance of the Rapallo agreement. At Paris Italy presented to the allied nations, to Great Britain and France, that contract, which was the treaty of London of 1915, by the terms of which Italy agreed to enter the war on the Anglo-French-Russian side, while those three great powers agreed that she should have certain profits from the expected victory. Chief among these profits was a frontier following the crest of the Alps from Switzerland to the Adriatic and in addition the northern half of the province of Dalmatia.

"For reasons explicable by reference to his fourteen points, President Wilson promptly vetoed this basis of settlement and at the same time with equal firmness refused to honor Italy's additional request that she be permitted to acquire Fiume, excepted from the Treaty of London, but unmistakably Italian in population and thus falling within the application of Wilson's principle of self-determination. Italy's position, however, was obviously illogical, since she asked the fulfillment of the Treaty of London, which did violence to the principle of self-determination, conspicuously in the case of Fiume she invoked this same principle.

"Italy asked for the crests of the Alps as a defensive rampart, a wall against the Teutonic world. And for some odd reason Wilson did for once ignore his principle of self-determination and agreed that the Italians should annex a quarter of a million Germans. But when Italy asked for the Dalmatian coast and islands as protection against a Slav menace and demanded Fiume on the Dalmatia, while in the matter of basis of the principle of self-determination, the President balked.

"Unfortunately, this dispute came at a critical moment in Paris and Wilson regarded it as a test of the success or failure of his whole program. He was also misled by the enthusiasm with which he had recently been received in Italy and concluded that the Italian people would listen to him rather than to the statesmen who represented Italy at Paris.

"As a consequence there emerged Wilson's amazing appeal to the Italian people over the heads of Orlando and Sonnino, which resulted in the withdrawal of the Italians from the peace conference, the stimulation of the Jugo-Slavs to resist all Italian proposals for settlement and all proposals made by the British and the French with the idea of composing this dangerous quarrel, since these proposals did not assure to Jugo-Slavia the maximum of benefits which would flow from the rigid application of the Wilsonian doctrine. Moreover, the situation was further complicated by the daring seizure of Fiume by D'Annunzio, who thus forbade in advance any Italian concession with respect to this port, the sole economic outlet of the new Slav state upon the open sea.

"The consequence has been that the Adriatic question has poisoned the whole European situation for more than a year and a half. Since France and Britain in the main supported President Wilson, Italian resentment has known no bounds, and French soldiers sent to police Adriatic districts in accordance with international agreement have been murdered by Italian soldiers. Moreover, Italian bitterness toward the United States has reached almost unprecedented limits, as any one who was in Italy in 1919 can testify.

"In truth, the Adriatic dispute has served to demolish the alliance which conquered Germany. Between France and Italy there has sprung up an animosity which almost exceeds that between France and Germany before 1914. France, seeking to build up a Central European barrier to later German expansion southward, has encountered Italian aspirations to minimize Southern Slav importance. In all the international conferences France has found Italy a relentless opponent. Dependent upon Britain for coal and oil, Italy has supported the British against the French on questions of German indemnity and Russian pacification.

"In all the tedious discussion of the Adriatic question, which covers upward of two years, four utterly irreconcilable positions have been at all times maintained. President Wilson declined to permit Fiume to pass to the Italians, since it was the single available commercial outlet of Jugo-Slavia. He refused to allow the Italians to acquire Dalmatia, in accordance with the Treaty of London, because this constituted a direct repudiation of his principle of self-determination. He favored the application of a league of nations solution, which would put Fiume under the league, as the Paris conference had done in the case of the Sarre Basin and of Danzig.

"France and Great Britain, for their part, acknowledged the obligation inherent in the pact of London. They were prepared, even against the veto of President Wilson, to support the Italian claims to the crest of the Alps and to the northern half of Dalmatia. But, on the other hand, they were unwilling to antagonise President Wilson by accepting the Italian solution of the Fiume dispute. By the declaration of London Fiume had been left outside the Italian area. If Italy pressed for the integral application of this agreement she must abandon Fiume.

"As for Italy, she could not abandon Fiume both because it was an Italian town and because first Giolitti politically and then D'Annunzio violently had raised the issue and brought in the element of national honor. To abandon this fragment of the Italian family, to permit it to be subdued by Jugo-Slav troops and submerged by a Slavonic invasion was a thing which no Italian Government could do and live. A domestic revolution was bound to follow any such yielding.

"There was still a fourth consideration. Accepting the powerful assistance and championship of President Wilson as a guarantee of American military aid, if necessary, the Jugo-Slavs not only refused all Italian offers, but resolutely declined all Anglo French proffers, which, while reducing the Jugo-Slav claims, as indorsed by President Wilson, nevertheless bestowed upon the Jugo-Slavs all that they could hope for and as much as they have actually obtained under the Rapallo settlement.

"In the meantime there was steadily the possibility of war and an enduring strain upon the resources of both nations directly concerned.

And in this connection it is essential to perceive the exact effect of the President's intervention. Unmistakably the Jugo-Slav Government under pressure from the European powers would in the spring of 1919 have accepted the settlement actually reached at the Rapallo in October, 1920, as the best available but for the fact that the whole of the Slav population were satisfied that President Wilson's support would win them more. The Government would have later accepted one of the proposals of the allies, since they soon perceived American aid would not be forthcoming, but for the fact that this truth was not grasped by the masses of their population and the Government would have been overthrown had it consented in 1919 to what it now accepts in 1920.

President Wilson's intervention did not contribute to a fairer or more enduring settlement in the end. It only postponed all settlement for more than a year and a half, excited hopes among the Slavs which were beyond realisation unless American soldiers and ships were to be employed to coerce the Italians and American financial resources similarly used.

"What one has to face in the Rapallo settlement is the fact that it will turn out good or bad only if the nations concerned accept it as final and apply it in a spirit of conciliation. Here we have to admit that the possibilities for bad blood are patent. The traditional antipathy of Slav for Italian in this region is undeniable. The present quarrel, long protracted and involving many maneuvers which have accentuated the old animosities, must leave an inheritance of bitterness.

"On the other hand, neither Italy nor Jugo-Slavia is in a position to desire new hostilities or new rivalries. It will take a generation, at the very least, to reconcile the three component parts of the Slavonic state, the Serbs, the Slovenians and the Croats. One of the worst circumstances in the whole Adriatic dispute has been the fact that Italy has countered Slav demands for Fiume by intrigues designed to promote Slavic disaffection, notably in the case of Montenegro, where a minority seek to preserve Montenegrin independence and thus prevent the complete reunion of the Southern Slavs.

"In a future which is by no means distant, however. Jugo-Slavia will in all probability be a really considerable state. Her area does not much fall short of that of Italy itself. Her resources, both mineral and agricultural, are on the whole equal if not superior to the Italian, and she has no such problem of overpopulation and no such burden of debt as must oppress Italian statesmen for many decades to come. The gain for world peace by the Rapallo settlement is, then, enormous and out of all proportion to the territory involved. If an idealistic solution has not been had a thoroughly sound and reasonable bargain has been made."

How Girls Control Electric Might

Young Women Experts Now Used Almost Exclusively In High-Voltage Tests Of X-Ray Tubes At America's Greatest Plants

In the manufacture of many of the articles in a big electrical plant high voltages are used to such an extent that no longer does mention of 100,000 volts or more attract any appreciable attention. In fact, the use of high voltages has become so common that girls are now utilised in such work.

In the manufacture of X-ray tubes at the Schenectady plant of one of the large electric companies girls have proved very successful in handling tests on these tubes with voltages up to 100,000. One of them has just won her way to a more advanced field of endeavor.

Ten, thirty, sixty thousand volts—frequently one hundred thousand—are sent surging through high-tension wires at this plant to naive young women who stare indifferently at the seven inches of twisting blue juice three feet in front of their eyes. Up to about two years ago men workers were at these high voltage switches. Girls were then almost unknown in X-ray tube exhausting and testing.

COMPELLED TO USE GIRLS

No one appreciated the possibilities of employing girls in the high voltage work of this department until early in 1918. It came about largely because of the dearth of men caused by the war. A foreman's belief in the capacity of girls for the work was, however, the immediate cause of the innovation.

Now the girls have it altogether. They quickly demonstrated their possession of the wide-awake faculties required. They have thrown defiance at the old-time conception of flustered feminine temperaments, unable to cope with daily stress and strain.

It has been for them a course of training in the invigorating blue spark university. And a "graduate" of that course now comes forward, developed in two years into a young woman of initiative, resource and responsibility.

Miss Ruth Mosher has been designated, from among the girls in the X-ray tube department to be a clinical assistant in X-ray demonstrations. She will work under one of the company's medical specialists, and will have an opportunity herself to take X-ray photographs as occasion arises.

"Do I like high voltage work?" Miss Mosher repeated the question with a quiet smile. "Oh, yes. I'm very much interested in it. How much voltage do I have to switch on? Why, in our test room it depends on the size of the spark gap—the space where the blue spark appears, you know.

"With most of the tubes we first test them on a six-inch gap, and that means about sixty thousand volts. Then we put them on a ten-inch gap, and the current is raised to about a hundred thousand volts."

She smiled again, and it all sounded perfectly simple. She might have been describing a new recipe for making fudge, cake or a plan for furnishing a four-room apartment. Somehow, the tingle of seeing a young woman whose daily work involved the releasing of a tremendous electrical force seemed to fade away.

But it was revived with a jump when Miss Mosher calmly remarked that she had herself gone through an electric shock, in the early days of her work.

SHOCKED BY 30,000 VOLTS

"I have been working at testing tubes for two years," she said, in her frank, pleasant way. "Yes, I received a shock—once. It was a slight shock; I think it was something more than thirty thousand volts. It was before automatic circuit breakers were used, and I had forgotten to turn off my switch, as I had been instructed to do when opening the testing oven.

"How did it feel? Just as if I was stuck to the floor. For a second or two I couldn't let go. Then I screamed and got my fingers free. I felt just a little burning sensation in my arm."

It was quite as if she were telling about an adventure on a picnic. She went on to observe that it means nothing to her now when she got a touch of the juice.

She referred chiefly to static shocks, for the girls in this department are well protected from actual danger, in addition to being carefully trained. There is so little possibly of mishap that they never seriously consider the idea.

Sometimes the metal apparatus inside the "oven"—the box-like, glass-fronted enclosures where the delicate tubes are subjected to the electrical bombardment—become so charged that they give out static sparks. Static sparks appear when the current is entirely off. Little pin-pricks in the fingers are felt at such times if the apparatus is touched.

These are harmless, although unexpected, and every girl in X-ray tube work is throughly accustomed to them. The girls are quite unconcerned over any phase of high voltage work. But at first it was bewildering.

"It was the noise that disturbed me on my first day," confessed Miss Mosher. "I was confused by the loud, sudden crackle when the current went through the spark gap. And I had so many things to watch. We have two switches to operate. One is the voltage switch, and the other is the ampere switch. We must watch the tube, also to see how it is behaving.

"The first day of my work I had to break in. One of the men gave instructions for several hours. He told me everything not to do, and what not to touch, and how much voltage to turn on for the different tubes. After a week I did not find it difficult. I like it now. I think it is wonderful to be able to help in making such an apparatus as an X-ray machine."

A glimpse of the girls at their work in the building where the blue spark snaps and squirms would surprise anyone who expected an exciting scene. It is remarkably quiet—except for the intermittent crash of the spark gaps which can be heard a long distance away.

A rectified high-tension current from an interruptless machine gives the tubes their "bombardment." The size of the focal spot, which is a target of tungsten metal inside the bulb, from which the X-rays are emitted, determines the amount of electrical energy which can be shot over the wires when the girl's hand turns the switch.

In testing the tubes the high-tension current is used solely to determine the efficiency of the finished product. The test is intentionally more severe than the service which the tubes actually receive.

The girls who test certain types of tubes take a photograph, at the same time, of the focal spot. This photograph is made on a strip of dental film during the short time that the tube is in the testing oven.

When exhausting or testing these tubes no girl is posted nearer than three feet to the high-voltage zone. The switches which the girls operate are on the outside of a railing, which is four or five feet from the ovens in which the tubes are sealed.

The area between the railing and the ovens, inter-crossed thickly with super-live wires, is enclosed by a complete fencing arrangement of narrow, close-set pickets, too near together to allow the arm to pass through. There is a further device for automatically breaking the circuit when the enclosure is entered.

In the testing room this device is an arrangement by which the circuit is cut when the door of the oven is raised. In the exhaust rooms, the same effect follows the raising of a gate in the picket fense. As there is not room enough to stand inside the enclosure when the gate is lowered, it is impossible for the current to flow while anyone is inside the danger area. This is a check system, which works regardless of whether the switch is on or off.

PROTECTED FROM X-RAYS

While the tubes are being exhausted to secure a vacuum, they are continually giving out X-rays. Sufficiently long exposure to the X-rays would cause burns on the skin. The girl operator, seated four or five feet away, if unprotected, would consequently begin to find sore spots on her skin after a few months.

To prevent this, every oven is lined with lead and is guarded by a glass door containing a high percentage of lead in glass an inch thick. X-rays will not penetrate lead, except to a trivial degree.

Man Who Is Trying To Teetotalise Scotland

By JAMES HODSON
(Daily Mail)

"Come in and warm your toes at the fire,'" said a hearty voice, and a big hand reached forward. The voice and the hand belonged to a broad, big man of 57, bald on top with black-grey, wiry hair at the sides and a short-clipped moustache. A rather heavy face enlivened by twinkling, brownish-grey eyes broke into a smile when he spoke. The place was the office of the National Citizens' Council, 121, St. Vincent Street, Glasgow, the "dry" G.H.Q., and the man was Lieut.-Col. Robert Kyle, C.M.G., D.S.O., the "brain" behind the movement. Put a pair of horn-rimmed spectacles on him and you would catch a distinct resemblance to "Pussyfoot" Johnson.

For 16 years as solicitor to the Glasgow Citizens' Vigilance Association, Col. Kyle has fought the liquor trade, opposing every new license and striving to get others withdrawn.

Last year, when the National Citizens' Council (Temperance of Scotland Act) was formed to operate the local option clauses he was appointed general secretary. The council is an ad hoc council, and will go out of existence when Scotland is "dry," within—in Col. Kyle's opinion—five years' time. He controls a staff of 30, and, indirectly, thousands upon thousands of workers throughout Scotland.

Not a typical lawyer and hardly a typical soldier (though he started as a bugler in the Lanark Rifles in Volunteer days and commanded the 16th Highland Light Infantry at the front from the Somme days till 1919), his charming manners and engaging frankness cloak a stubborn fighter and a quick decision.

While we talked organisers were working hard a yard away. A bell rang.

"So-and-so wants you on the 'phone, colonel."

"Talk to him yourself," was the prompt retort; "you're as good a man as I am."

And again when I mentioned "Pussyfoot" Johnson the colonel fired out: "I'm too much of a Scot to want an American running things."

Humor flashes from him like sparks from a tramway rail. I referred to his speeches. "I'm talking too much. I get up at half-past six and never go to bed that day. I used to tell the Trade, 'We are really doing your job, wiping out the badly run slum drinking dens.'"

But he is fighting for what he believes is fine, patriotic cause.

Not a fanatic but terribly sincere; not a bully but a man who knows what he wants; not a time-waster but a man of rare courtesy—such is "the Colonel," as his friends call him.

"If I can't win, honest and straight, with all my cards on the table, I don't want to win," he told me.

It was easy to believe him.

ROW-LANDS

The "row-lands" of the Settlement have come in for deservedly severe criticism. Their name is a disgrace when it is remembered that the word Trenches will in future be usually associated with those of glorious memory.

Now a determined effort is being made to make the virtue of a decent club more attractive than the vice of one of our local plague spots. Mr. Rowlands would put a stop to the "row-lands" and tonight will open a club for young people, where they will find means for social meetings; for intellectual pleasures, and in time for physical recreation. The Union Church Club is to be made attractive. Its object is to give the lonely ones the best of company. Fine! And good luck to it.

ENGLISH AS SHE IS WRIT

Says an exchange: The English superintendent of a hospital for Indian women recently received, amongst others, the following testimonials to her efficiency:

"Dear She,—My wife has returned from your hospital cured. Provided males are allowed at your bungalow, I would like to do you the honor of presenting myself there this afternoon, but I will not try to repay you. Vengeance belongeth unto God.—Yours noticeably,——."

The second reads:—

"Dear and Fair Madame,—I have much pleasure to inform you that my dearly unfortunate wife will no longer be under your kind treatment. She having left this world for the other on the night of the 27th ulto. For your help in this matter I shall ever remain greatful.—Yours reverently,——."

"The employer, the capitalist, is as much an essential element in the production of wealth as the man who only works with his hands." That is another way of putting it. And John Bull comes along and puts the same thought in his own crisp way:

He was a British laboring man
Who struggled for his rights,
He worked his seven hours a day
Then spouted hard at nights
Of capitalists who working men
Most horribly ground down,
Of wine they drank, and long cigars
They smoked, at half-a-crown.
Of all the luxuries they had
He spoke with virtuous scorn,
The wealth they'd got he made for them
With muscle and with brawn.
He did not see that in this world
Each man must have his place,
But thought that one who worked with mind—
Not hands—was a disgrace.
He did not realise he lived
On energy transferred
From one man with a fertile brain
Unto the common herd.
Oh, foolish man, you have one thing
That truly is your right—
Just do the job that you have got
With all your heart and might.
All men must work if they would live
And earn their daily bread;
Most are designed to use their hands,
A few must work with head.

Care Of The Growing Child

To secure the best results in health work among children there must be close co-operation between the home and the school. The work of the teacher will be much less difficult if the child has been trained in hygienic habits at home, and the mother will find her efforts supplemented and her work strengthened by the teaching of hygiene in the schools, and the oversight of her child by the medical inspector and school nurse.

Among the factors affecting the health of the child which are entirely controlled by the home, sleep is important. Children from six to ten years should have about ten or eleven hours of sleep in the twenty-four, and from ten to sixteen years the amount of sleep should be about nine hours. Every child should sleep alone (as far as this is possible) in a quiet, well-ventilated room. He should go to bed at such an hour as will make it possible for him to secure sufficient sleep and awaken naturally early enough to get to school on time without undue haste or the neglect of any duty he should perform before leaving home.

The more outdoor life a child has the better he will sleep usually. On the other hand, a heavy meal in the evening, the use of tea or coffee, much home study in the evening, obstructed breathing, earache, toothache, and similar conditions are apt to interfere with the child's sleep.

FLUSH ROOMS WITH AIR

If a sleeping porch is not available, the windows in the room should be open so that the child may have plenty of fresh air. He may be protected from drafts by the use of screens, and from cold by soft, light covers and hot water bottles when necessary. During the day living rooms and school room should be flushed several times with fresh air for a few minutes at a time by opening the windows.

A child's clothing should be such as to prevent any part of his body from chilling, but at the same time should not be so heavy as to cause him to perspire on slight exertion. The habitual use of too heavy clothing predisposes to "colds," while too little clothing cause a heavy drain on the child's vitality. To attempt to harden a child by undue exposure is not wise. In Winter long stockings should be worn, and the feet should be protected from wetting by rubbers.

The feeding of children is of the greatest importance, and apart from the quantity and quality of the food the time and manner of the meal should receive much consideration. Regularity of feeding should not cease when the child is weaned. Teach him to expect his meals at regular hours, and his appetite and digestion readily adapt themselves to a schedule that is strictly adhered to. Let the meals be cheerful, social occasions. The food is more easily digested when eaten in a happy atmosphere than when consumed in gloom or acrimonious argument.

MATTER OF RECREATION

The question of recreation for a school boy or girl is sometimes a difficult problem. Outdoor play and sports are ideal, but the "movies" and similar entertainments have a strong appeal. A child attending school should not go to evening entertainments of any kind on any evening except Friday or Saturday, and the child should not keep late hours then or go habitually. This applies to children in the upper grades. Younger children's entertainments should be very infrequent, and never in the evening.

Open-air classes were originally intended for tuberculosis children, tubercular convalescents, and the pre-tubercular. It was felt that their physical condition should not interfere with their education, nor their education aggravate or intensify their physical disability. Hence, open-air classes were established in order that these children might be educated under conditions favoring their recovery. The work was then extended to include anaemic, delicate and "run-down" children, and has included normal children. Indeed, some of the best private schools in the country conduct all their lower classes in open-air rooms.

Whether these are called "real-open-air rooms" or "open-window rooms," the principles upon which they are run, the methods, and the results are much the same, provided sufficient window space is available to allow the room to be properly called an open-air room.

Excellent work may be done in an open-air class located on the roof of a building, on a sheltered balcony, in a tent or shack, or in a regular class room, with all the windows removed from their frames. There must, of course, always be a roof or some kind of covering to prevent rain and snow from falling into the room, and there should be some kind of wall or screen to serve as a wind break.

In some cities the new school buildings are equipped with one or more open-air class rooms. Sometimes large hinged windows, reaching almost from the floor to the ceiling, occupy one or more sides of the room. Such rooms can be immediately converted into open-air rooms.

For the complete success of open-air classes, it is essential that warm clothing and good food be looked upon as necessary adjuncts to the fresh air. If the child is allowed to become chilled, the good effects of the fresh air will be nullified. A warm outer wrap and covering for the head, felt boots or other protection for the feet, a sitting-bag, blanket and any other covering needed for the study or rest period (sometimes spent in lying or sleeping on cots) must be provided for each child.

CHILDREN NEED EXTRA FOOD

Food furnishes fuel for the body and hence is a source of heat. Children in open-air classes need extra food for this reason, as well as to help in their up-building. Hot soups, cocoa and similar simple, nourishing warm foods should be supplied.

The teacher of an open-air class should be particularly well-qualified for her work. She should know something of food values and the general hygienic requirements of children. If she has, in addition, an instinct for social service, her value will be all the greater. An open-air class furnishes a splendid opportunity for the formation of invaluable health habits.

In almost all cases the results of open-air classes have been very good. The children usually gain in weight more rapidly than the average, the appetite improves, nervousness decreases, and the blood takes on a much redder hue. The pupils generally are more alert and interested, sometimes advancing more rapidly in their grade than other children.

To the more or less family or community spirit developed in an open-air class, the children respond with helpful co-operation.

How To Treat An Umbrella

Very few people know the right way with an umbrella. We hear them constantly complaining of how quickly their "brolly" wears out, without realising in the least that it is their own careless treatment of a faithful friend that is really at fault.

Never open out an umbrella to dry, as it will overstrain the ribs and cover, while the outraged article will revenge itself by refusing ever after to allow itself to be neatly folded. And never, never, roll up and tie a wet umbrella unless you wish for a rusted frame and a general rotting of the fabric. The proper way of dealing with an umbrella when wet is to close it gently and hang it somewhere so that the points are downwards. Afterwards, when nearly dry, it can be taken down folded, and tied.

The silk umbrella requires even more care from its fortunate possessor. Never place this aristocrat in an umbrella stand while damp, nor should you lean it in this state against a wall.

In carrying, avoid the ungraceful habit of grasping your umbrella by its middle. By doing so you will only crease and eventually discolor the cover. Held further up, the tips will soon get frayed. Remember that the stick is intended as the carrier portion.

Should it be muddy, do not brush your umbrella ferociously. The kindlier treatment of a sponge and clean water does just as well, and will not wear the material.

Finally, when not your companion, leave your umbrella reposing in its case. By so doing you will prolong its life to a healthy old age. In the case of an umbrella remember that it is better for it to wear out than to rust out.

Children's Lingerie

The discriminating mother dresses her children for the winter according to their temperamental needs. Some children are naturally so warm that it is positive torture to them to be enveloped in the extra woollies their chilly brothers and sisters require. For them medium-weight combinations will suffice, and many mothers knit these garments or fashion them in fine flannel.

KNITTED KNICKERBOCKERS

They knit also the knickerbockers small girls wear under their frocks, or make them of the same material as the frocks. Stockinette is a useful fabric in this connection, and in some cases the best of garments that have served the mother's purpose can be cut down for the children's use.

White wear, always so becoming to a child, is wanted, however, for smart occasions, and now that the party season approaches mothers will be buying and making dainty cambric combinations and silk petticoats, prettily frilled and lace bedecked. Individualism, so precious in the fashioning of lingerie for tiny girls, particularly as a decorative asset. Embroideries of birds, make an appropriate subject, and in some cases animals, windmills, and little people are substituted.

Scalloped hems secure a neat finish for simple white "undies," and can be bought ready to sew on, and narrow Valenciennes lace added to insertion, with white ribbon runners, is very appropriate for more elaborate-looking garments.

It is very necessary when choosing a pretty little princess petticoat to see that the decolletage is cut appropriately for the frock that is to be worn with it. Round neck dresses in particular require specially cut petticoat necks, or the awkwardness of having a bodice that "shows" will be risked.

PERFECT DETAILS

But in all these details designers are well versed, and the tiny belle of seven can be assured of having everything she wears as perfect as her debutante sister or mother.

Among the frothy white Indian lawn, crystalline, nainsook and thin white silk "undies" sold in sets for children, those that are embellished with tiny tucks and and frills, inset with age-yellow lace and ribbon to match, are perhaps most new, but many mothers prefer the all-white sets, with white satin ribbon runners, as more befitting sweet simplicity.—Daily Mail.

War Members A Club Problem In London

London, Nov. 6.—The question of what shall be done with the "temporary" members who were worthy of all privileges during the war, but who may not be socially eligible now, is worrying many London clubs. During the war the hospitality of the clubs was extended to thousand of officers in the British service. Since peace many of these officers, or one-time officers, have desired to become regular members of the clubs whose comforts and conveniences they have become accustomed to and enjoy. But now the question arises, are they eligible

Some members hold that if they were good enough to enjoy the club privileges during the war they are worthy of them now. Others hold that social position, popularity and half a score other things may enter into the case.

Some of the older clubs, such as Brooks's, the Windham and the Reform, are adopting the policy of the newer organisations in leaving the election of new members to the Membership Committee, thus minimising the possibility of a desirable candidate being "blackballed" by one or two members who have a private grudge to satisfy.
